Germany halts supplies to Libyan plant

BONN (R) — Germany said Monday it had stopped two firms supplying ponent for a suspected new chemical weapons factory in Libya similar policy policy policy policy policy policy. "We equipment for a suspected new chemical weapons factory in Libya similar to the Rabta plant that Western countries say makes poison gas. "We have no reason to believe these firms knew they were dealing with a chemical weapons plant," government spokesman Dieter Vogel told a regular news conference. He dealed any prosecutions were planned on charges of illegal arms exports. "About six months ago we got indications. that Libya was building a second chemical weapons factory and that many firms, mostly not from Germany, were involved in deliveries to build such a plant — West European firms," he said. The two implicated German firms were checked and found to be unaware they were working for a chemical weapons factory. The firms immediately agreed to Bonn's demands to stop any further deliveries. Mr. Vogel said. "One case involved tunnel-boring equipment and the other some cable — typical dual-use products which could also have been used for other investments in Libya and were declared as such," Mr. Vogel said.

م كذا عن الأمل DE 1151 21 An independent Arab political daily published by the Jurdan Press Foundation

حوردان تابير يومية سيفسية تُقَسِر بالإنجليزية عن للأسسة الصحفية الأربنية والرايء

Iraq assails U.N. sanctions committee

BAGHDAD (R) — Iraq protested to the United Nations Monday that in sanctions committee was preventing the Iraqi people from obtaining the daily necessities of life. "Iraq rejects and protests the method of work of the sanctions committee," Foreign Minister Mohammad Saeed Al Sahafi said in a letter to U.N. Secretary General Bourns Ghali reported by the lraqi News Agency (INA). Mr. Sahaf sharply criticised the committee for what he said was its repeated opposition to the import of certain items to Iraq. He said the U.S. and British representatives opposed "most of the offers submitted to the committee though they fall within the scope of the hasic daily life requirements of the Iraqi people." The United States and Britain recently turned down offers from Jordanian companies to send Iraq textiles, wood and electrical appliances, Mr. Sahaf added. He said the committee had approved some of the rejected items in the past. Mr. Sahaf said Japan joined the United States and Britain in rejecting an offer to supply Iraq with 10,000 exhaust fams. He said he hoped the new U.S. administration under President Bill Clinton would react favourably to frag's offer of dialogue.

Volume 17 Number 5235

AMMAN TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1993, SHA'BAN 24, 1413

Price: Jordan 100 fils; Saudi Arabia 1.50 riyals; UAE 1.50 dirhams

ing condoles Alamis hatibs and Hijazis

MMAN (Petra) — His Majesty ng Hussein Monday visited the l Alami family to condole them
er the death of Sheikh Sandedn Al Alami, the mufti of Jerulem and the West Bank who em and the west pank who issed away in the Holy City last eek. King Hussein also visited to Khalil Al Rahman Society to fer condolences on the death of rmer Jerusalem Governor nwar Al Khatib, who passed vay in the Holy City last Suniy. The King also visited the ijazi family to condole them for the death of the mother of r. Hilmi Hijazi.

^{S Day} ordanian wins inhead questrian event

Cearmemman (J.T.) — Jordan's Hani isharat Monday won the first ace in the Arab Gulf horse now championship held in man. Mr. Bisharat won the first ace in the equestrian chamonship in which 39 competitors ok part. On Sunday, Bisharat on the second place in the urnament's grand prix.

)(C urges protection ⊲n Palestinians

UBAI (R) - The 51-member rganisation of the Islamic Conrence (OIC) Monday urged the curity Council to provide intertional protection for Palestians in the Israeli-occupied terriries. An OIC statement said raeli forces were "escalating is of repression, terrorism and urder against Palestinians ... is coincides with Israel's refusal -- comply with the inimactions of solution 799 which provides r the immediate return of all estinian (expellees) to their mes." It said OIC Secretaryeneral Hamid Al Gabid "inies the U.N. Security Council to ily shoulder its responsibilities d take necessary measures to actices in the occupied territor-; and to provide the necessary ternational protection for the destinian people. wedes in Iraq

o be freed soon?

OCKHOLM (R) — Three vedes jailed in Iraq since ptember could soon be set free. wife of a Briton also imprised in Baghdad told Swedish edia. "The release of the redes is imminent." Julie Ride. fe of Paul Ride, one of two led Britons, was quoted as ring in an interview with the nday Evening newspaper Idag. rlier this month to the Abu raib prison near Baghdad iere both groups are being id. Mr. Ride said several ustworthy" people at the prishad told her that her husband 1 Briton Michael Wainwright uld take over the cell currently supied by the Swedes. She told : domestic news agency TT late 5 anday that she did not think this ant those three would in turn moved to another cell.

an: Island talks ust be with Sharjah

COSIA (R) — Iran said Sunany talks over the disputed if island of Abu Musa jointly trolled by Tehran and the ited Arab Emirates (UAE), uld be held with the emirate harjah, rather than the UAE 3ration. "The Islamic Repubof Iran will never compromise its national sovereignty and itorial integrity, and any kind alks will be held with Sharjah he basis of the 1971 accord." eign Minister Ali Akbar A news agency. The 1971 ement between Iran and jah, under which Tehran was ed to set up a garrison on island, was signed a few hs before the establishment ^e UAE out of seven Gulf ice kill suspect in → Delta

O (AP) - Police fatally suspected extremist Monnd arrested three others their pick-up truck sped h a checkpoint outside a lelta town, a security offiud. In another incident, arrested four militants in ern Egypt after they ed a Christian family with

Rights group accuses

Israeli army of 'summary executions' of Palestinians

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM street. (Agencies) — A Palestinian human rights group accused the Israeli army Monday of carrying out "summary executions" of six Arabs in the occupied Gaza Strip in a two-week period. Al Haq, the affiliate of the International Commission of Jurinto the body of the victim. ists in the occupied West Bank, said it had affidavits from witnesses to the three incidents refuting Israeli assertions the soldiers had been in danger.

"The evidence proves that Palestinians were executed whilst in the hands of the Israeli military authorities, having shown no resistance," said a statement from Al Haq. Only one had tried to flee, it said.

The army had no immediate

The deaths, described by Al Haq as "summary executions." were part of a surge in violence since Israel's Dec. 17 expulsion of 415 Palestinians to Lebanon. Israelis have killed 44 Arabs in the period.

Al Haq said soldiers, accompanied by an Israeli in civilian clothes, handcuffed Yousef Al Ghoula, 30, inside a house in Gaza City on Jan. 27 and then took him to the middle of the

"One of the soldiers aimed his rifle at the detainee and shot him dead with a burst of bullets." the report said. "To ensure that the detainee had died, the person in civilian clothes likewise shot a number of times from his pistol

On Feb. 5, an army jeep stopped a local car, Al Haq said. A soldier opened the back door of the car and "shot a round of bullets" at three young men. That soldier and another then fired in the air, opened the front door and shot the two Palestinians in the front, it said.

Three Palestinians died and two were wounded, Al Haq said. On Feb. 10, four masked Palestinian youths were writing slogans on a wall in Nuseirat refugee camp when four men in civilian clothes approached, Al

Hag said. One youth with a sword was hauled to the ground, the human rights group said. The undercover soldiers shot dead one youth with an axe who was fleeing, from a distance of three metres, without trying to arrest him, an Al Haq okesman said.

fatally shot a 16-year-old Palesti-nian and wounded another eight, the army and Arab reports said. Amjad Masoud Hassan Mashaki sustained a gunshot wound in apprehended," Al Haq said, adding that both those killed

On Sunday, Israeli soldiers were under the age of 16.

the head after troops opened fire when their jeep was allegedly stoned in Talousa village near Nablus in the West Bank, the army said.

"Soldiers shouted at them to stop and when they didn't, they shot at them," an army statement

Mashaki was the 1.038th Palestinian killed by an Israeli during the five-year uprising. Seven other Palestinians aged 15 to 35 were shot when troops opened fire in Dureij refugee camp in the Gaza Strip Sunday, Arab reports said.

Israel's high court in a rare ruling Monday barred the army from demolishing an Arab-owned house in the occupied West Bank but said the building may be They then released a burst of partially sealed, the Itim news bullets into the body of the first

Senate votes to curb law covering journalists' source of information

By Ayman Al Safadi Jordan Times Staff Reporter

AMMAN — The Upper House of Parliament (Senate) Monday decided that only courts of law can force journalists to reveal their sources of information "during trial of criminal cases and to protect state security, prevent crime and attain justice."

After a lengthy debate of article 6 of the draft press and publication law, the Senate voted in favour of a motion by Senator and former Prime Minister Mudar Badran that sources should be revealed only under a court order and "not to the judiciary" as proposed by the Senate's Judiciary Committee.

after the Senate established that the judiciary sought to include the general prosecutor who, according to the committee's amendment of the article, among the officials empowered to demand that journalists divulge their sources during investigations.

Mr. Badran said that only a court of law can decide whether a case on trial relates to state security or whether the divulgence of a journalist's source can help prevent crime or achieve justice. Mr. Badran's proposal received the support of the majority of the

During its three-hour session, the Senate endorsed the recommendations of its Judiciary Committee on articles seven to 16 of

The committee recommended that the Senate pass articles seven, nine, 11, 12, 14 and 16 as approved by the Lower House but opted for the government's version of article 8 of the draft

As amended by the Lower House, the article says, "The goverument has to facilitate the job of journalists and researchers in looking at its programmes and projects." The government's ver-sion of the article does not oblige it to facilitate the work of journalists in reviewing its programmes; it simply states that the govern-ment would "work" towards that

The Senate amended articles 10 and 13 to demand that "those Israeli killed in Jerusalem

OCCUPIED JERUSALEM (Agencies) — An unknown assailant killed an Israeli man and wounded a woman at a bus stop early Monday before fleeing to an adjacent neighbourhood., Israeli police said.

The stabbings occurred at 6:20 a.m. (0420 GMT) in the Jewish neighbourhood of East Talpiot near the city's U.N. headquarters. Police sealed off two neighbouring Arab villages while detaining suspects.

Police said the dead man was 28 years old.

A Jewish woman, 30, was stabbed in the stomach, leg and head... Hospital officials said she was in good condition after surgery. Earlier reports incorrectly said she was pregnant.

The hospital said the man's father, 63, injured his head in a fall trying to help the others. He was not stabbed.

Angry Jews took to the streets carrying protest banners and shouting that Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's government had failed to protect them. Police urged residents not to take "re-

Police said that at about 6:00 a.m. (0400 GMT). an "Arab" attacked without warning in the area of Armon Hanaziv, bordering East Jerusalem.

Moshe Mizrachi, who was fell struggling with the assailant, said the man shouted something in Arabic but Mizrachi said he could not understand it.

The assailant, described as about 25 years old, was seen fleeing towards the adjacent Arab neighbourhoods of Jabal Mukaber and Sur Baher by a bus driver who fired two shots in his direction.

"We imposed a curfew on the two (Arab) neighbourhoods in order to find the assailant," a police spokesman said.

Expulsion crisis should not derail Mideast peace talks — Abu Sharif

TUNIS (Agencies) — The crisis ment met Sunday to "reassess the sparked by the Dec. 17 Israeli expulsion of more than 400 Palestinians to Lebanon should lees," a PLO spokesman said on not derail the Middle East peace condition of anonymity. The talks, a top adviser to Palestine Liberation Organisation (PLO) Chairman Yasser Arafat was quoted as saying in an interview published Monday.

Bassam Abu Sharif, who often floats ideas for the PLO leader, was quoted as saying by the Tunisian newspaper A! Bayan that the expulsions were a "side issue" that should not be linked to the talks. "There should be no link between the return of the expellees and the continuation of the peace talks," Mr. Abu Sharif was quoted as saying. "There are four million Palestinians who were expelled from their land. I want to emphasise that this is only a side

The Central committee of the PLO's mainstream Fatah move-situation in the occupied territories and the issue of the expeltinue Monday. No final com-

Israel's expulsion of the Palestinians to southern Lebanon on Dec. 17 in retaliation for the killing of six Israeli soldiers by Islamic groups has stalled the U.S.-led peace talks for two

The Palestinians, accused of belonging to the Hamas and Isla-mic Jihad movements, have been living in a freezing tent camp outside Israel's self-styled "security zone" in South Lebanon. banon refuses to accept them.

The United Nations Security Council originally ordered the Jewish state to immediately repatriate all the Palestinians, but accepted a U.S.-brokered compromise Friday where Israel can take back 101 now and the rest by vear's end. The PLO and Arab states have denounced the compromise and demanded that the Security against Israel with the same vigor ed against Iraq in the Gulf war Mr. Abu Sharif's comment were the first by a senior PLO nisation, which guides the Palestinian delegation to the talks, will not boycott the negotiations over "In my opinion, we should not link the return of the (expellees)

figure indicating that the orga-

with the continuation of the peace process," Mr. Abu Sharif said, adding, "if we are keen on the future of our homeland." Official PLO spokesmen last week denied that similar state-ments by Mr. Abu Sharif re-flected official policy. The denials may have been linked to the fact

(Continued on page 5)

Exiles say Christopher tour doomed unless they return

MARJ AL ZOHOUR, Lebanon (R) - Palestinian expel-lees said Monday a Middle East tour by the U.S. secretary of state this week was doomed to failure unless Israel allowed them to go back to the occupied territories.

The exiles, stuck in a snow-whipped South Lebanon area since being banished by Israel on Dec. 17, also urged the Arab League to block a U.N. bid to sidestep their crisis.

U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher starts his mission to Egypt, Jordan, Syria, Saudi Arabia. Kuwait and Israel on Thursday. He will push to get Middle East peace talks, stalled by the crisis over the expulsions, back on track

"Christopher will return empty handed if he does not archieve the return of the (expellees). IN line with the international decision. said Abdul Azīz Al Rantisi, leader of the exiled men. Christopher has one option: To convince Israel to submit to the international legitimacy and implement Resolution 799.

U.N. Security Council Resolu-

tion 799, issued a day after the expulsions, demands Israel take back all the men immediately. But Dr. Rantisi said the expel-lees were not optimistic Mr. Christopher's visit would lead to their swift return home.

He forecast that Mr. Christopher was "preparing something behind the scenes" and warned that the evictees were determined not to accept anything less than all of them returning home. "We urge the Arab states to force Mr. Christopher to pressure Israel ... and we tell them that we reject any phased return.

"We will achieve victory by holding on to this decision no

(Continued on page 5)

Israeli-allied gunmen order villagers to leave their homes

TYRE (AP) - Israel's militia and the exodus of its populaallies in southern Lebanon Monday warned villagers living near strongholds of resistance fighters to clear out, and threatened to destroy one village if residents cooperate with the guerrillas, Voice of the South radio, run by the Israeli backed South Lebanon Army (SLA), warned all villagers living near the strongholds to leave their homes until further notice. "In view of increasing attacks by fundamentalist guerrillas, we advise all villagers living near Hizbollah strongholds to leave their homes until further notice." the radio said living in Maidal Silim, on the edge of Israel's self-styled "security zone" in southern Lebanon, against cooperating with the Iranian-backed Hizbollah. "Such cooperation will result in tion," said the radio. The village has an estimated 1,500 inhabitants

Villagers did not appear to immediately heed the warnings. which normally follow deaths among the SLA and Israeli army from guerrilla attacks. Such warnings sometimes precede Israeli air raids or other attacks. The violence comes on the eve of U.S. Secretary of State Warren Christopher's Middle East tour to revive peace talks stalled by Israel's expulsion of about 400 Palestinians to southern Lebahe radio said.

Lebanese security sources reThe radio also warned villagers ported earlier that Israeli troops and the SLA fired machineguns at suspected Hizbollah positions woods and olive groves near the "security zone.

Hizboliah guerrillas launched attacks on the "security zone" the destruction of Majdal Silim Saturday on forward SLA posts.

U.N.-commanded force to deploy in all of Somalia

The U.N. said Monday that up to 25,000 troops would be deployed under its flag throughout Somalia, including the breakaway north, after the impending U.S. handover of command of the tions in Somalia (UNOSOM) force "will deploy in all of Somalia - the north, northeast, northwest and along Somalia's borders with Kenya and Ethiopia," U.N. spokesman in Somalia Farouk Mawlawi said.

He told reporters this was among recommendations U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Ghali would present to the Security Council later this week. He indicated there was a "consensus" that the proposed deployment tore Hope," sent into Somalia in December with a U.N. mandate to halt looting of food aid meant for two million starving people now numbers about 33,000 troops With the transfer of command.

about 19,000 U.S. troops would be sent home, leaving a rapidreaction force of 5,000 Americans and U.S. military logistical sup-

About 10,000 other non-U.S. troops already in Somalia would also stay behind, supplemented by fresh forces that would bring the total UNOSOM strength to a peak of 25,000. U.N. officials say the Security Council will define the timetable over to UNOSOM when it con-But U.N. and U.S. sources strongly indicate that the bulk of the American troops would be out by the end of April. Mr. Mawlawi said UNOSOM "will not be a passive peace attack on Algerian strongman

(FIS) has claimed responsibility for the failed weekend attack on Defence Minister Khaled Nezzar, and the army-backed government vowed to "eradicate terrorism."

"This can be considered a clear and qualitative warning from the mujahedeen to the despots who have openly fought God and his Prophet," said the front's statement, received by the Associated Press in Paris. It was dated Sunday, a day after the attack, and signed by exiled FIS spokesman

The attack aimed at General Nezzar, though it failed, was one of the most spectacular among hundreds known to have been mounted by Islamic extremists over the past year. It was be-lieved to be the first in which a bomb was exploded by remote in a statement Sunday night. pledged to "totally and definitiveeradicate terrorism" and do

ALGIERS (AP) — Algeria's away with anyone associated with banned Islamic Salvation Front Islamic extremists trying to topple the year-old regime.

Gen. Nezzar, one of the five committee members, is considered the regime's strongman. A booby-trapped car exploded Saturday morning in the path of his car as he travelled to work. Neither he nor his entourage was injured but the explosion damaged 100 metres roadway, witnesses said. Gen. Nezzar was shown on state television Sunday night in a working session, sequences apparently intended to dispel any rumours that he failed to survive. The FIS warned "the junta and those supporting it" of the "revolt of the Muslim Algerian people," and threatened more attacks if God wills it." islamic extremists have targetted security forces in hundreds of attacks since a state of emergency was declared Feb. 9, 1992. The attacks are aimed at avenging the thwarted victory by the FIS in

(Continued on page 5)

Clerides beats Vassiliou in polls; Denktash urges quick personal meeting kept a public silence Monday after his razor-thin victory while Greece and Turkish Cypriot lead-er Rauf Denktash welcomed his election.

Mr. Denktash, president of the breakaway statelet in the north of the island, invited Mr. Clerides to a "cordial meeting that would help eliminate distrust between the two peoples."

Such a meeting would not solve problems stemming from the Tur-kish invasion of the north and occupation since 1974, but could be a positive first step, Mr. Denktash said. Turkish Premier Suleiman Demirel said it was too early to comment on the Clerides victory.

Greek President Constantine Caramanlis told Mr. Clerides in a message: "I am sure that your long personal experience on the Cyprus problem will contribute positively to finding a just and viable solution."

Mr. Clerides, 73, narrowly defeated incumbent George Vassilion Sunday in second-round voting by Greek Cypriots, whose government of Cyprus in the island's southern portion is internanonally recognised.

Only Turkey recognises Mr. Denktash's state, which formally NICOSIA (Agencies) — broke away in 1983 and is sup-President-elect Glafcos Clerides ported by 35,000 Turkish troops. Despite his call for an early meeting with Mr. Clerides, Mr. Denktash said resuming U.N. peace talks next month would be > meaning," he told a news conference in Nicosia. "I consider myself totally without authority in the matter of continuing the talks. He said the election result meant that militants who favoured uniting Cyprus with Greece had come to power. Mr. Denktash refrained from personal criticism of Mr. Clerides, an old political sparring partner, and urged him to accept face-to-face talks, long spurned by the Greek Cypriots.

"I extend my hand to the new president of the Greek-Cypriot people in south Cyprus," he told Renters, deliberately choosing language which challenges the legitimacy of the Cyprus republic.

"I invite him to come and have sincere talks here with us to see whether there is a way out of the stalemate into which (U.N. Security Council) Resolution 789 and the report of the secretary eral and his map have put us,

Mr. Denktash expressed con-

"The March talks have lost all by Boutros Ghali, the U.N. chief, for a Cyprus settlement.

ktash declared. Resolution 789, passed in November after the last round of U.N. talks with the two communities sputtered into deadlock, blamed Turkish Cypriots for the lack of progress and urged both sides to take confidence-building

Glascos Clerides

cern about what he said were election promises by Mr. Clerides to cleanse the north of Turkish forces and Turkish settlers and try to reverse a population exchange which took place between the two parts of the island in

He predicted that Mr. Clerides, who won Sunday's poll by a hair's-breadth, would openly oppose the set of ideas proposed "One thing is clear. U.N. Resolution 789 has been gravely moved down by the Greek-Cypriot electorate," Mr. De-from 22 countries. multinational force. The United Nations Opera-should go ahead.

The U.S.-led "Operation Res-of the U.S. withdrawal and handsiders Dr. Ghali's proposals.

observer group. It will have the

(Continued on page 5)

Banned Islamist group claims

Rabah Kedir.

control. The ruling High State Council,

Gulf states are key market for world arms merchants

By Ashraf Fouad Reuter

ABU DHABI - With the end of the cold war the Gulf Arab oil states, whose vulnerability was laid bare by the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, have quickly developed into the most lucrative market for the world's arms merchants.

More than 350 weapons manufacturers from 34 countries had their wares on display at the opening Sunday in Abu Dhabi of the Gulf region's largest arms bazaar, the first International Defence Exhibition (IDEX 93).

Two years after the Gulf war, the Gulf Arabs are rushing to modernise and expand their defences despite curbs on spending due to cheaper oil, their main source of income.

The London-based International Institute for Strategic Studies says the Arab oil states concluded it was wiser for them to rely for security on massive arms purchases and the protection of outside powers rather than on uncertain regional alliances.

As a result, the region offers money-spinning opportunities especially to arms makers in the United States, Russia, Britain and France who have been badly hit by defence cuts brought on by the demise of the Soviet Union.

A private U.S. group that monitors the arms trade, the Safeworld Foundation, said last year Middle East states placed firm orders worth $42.8 billion in the two years to July

The figure includes major non-Gulf buyers like Israel, Egypt and Turkey but the ABU DHABI (AP) — The U.S.

Westinghouse Electric Corpora-tion has won a $300 million contract to install a command-and-control system for the United Arab Emirates (UAE) air defence network, the Defence

The Pittsburgh-based company beat another U.S. firm, the Hughes Aircraft Company of which is the first phase of a major upgrading of the seven-emirate federation's command-and-

Jamal Soweidi, the Defence

Ministry spokesman, said that Westinghouse agreed to plow back some . the money into a joint venture in the emirates in the UAE's offset programme. He

The Westinghouse contract declined to give details.

control system.

Ministry announced Monday.

lion's share of $25.6 billion of contracts was obtained from Saudi Arabia, of which twothirds were won by U.S. firms. it added.

Saudi Arabia has since signed further big contracts with the United States and Britain and its current arms kitty is estimated at $5 billion a

Kuwait plans to buy an estimated $15 billion worth of arms by the end of the decade and the United Arab Emirates (UAE) was expected to spend around $10 billion by the year

IDEX 93 opened with the UAE awarding a $3.5 billion deal to France for 390 battle tanks against tough competition from its Gulf war allies the United States and Britain.

In addition to the manufacturers, government ministers from France, Britain, Russia. Iran and Italy came to the Abu Dhabi exhibition to help boost

Immediately after the sixweek war that drove Iraqi troops from Kuwait, the Gulf Arab states sought to integrate the defences of all six states of the Gulf Cooperation Council - Bahrain, Kuwait, Qatar, Oman, Saudi Arabia and the

But no concrete measures have emerged from two years of negotiations and most Gulf states have meanwhile signed defence pacts with the United States, Britain and France.

This has led to muted criticisms about the usefulness of the arms spending spree in some Gulf media.

A prominent economist, Jassem Al Saadoon of Kuwait. was quoted in the newspaper Al Khaleej Sunday as saying that stockpiling arms was "not the same as military power." He said that when Kuwait was invaded by Iraq, 75 per cent of the available weapons remained unused in store-

Gulf-based diplomats say threats — real or perceived — surround the Gulf states on all

Iraq, despite its Gulf war defeat, is seen as a serious threat so long as President Saddam Hussein remains in

The wealthy but thinly populated Gulf Arab states also feel threatened by the poverty that surrounds them. "A poor man has no need to burglar alarms them and hires security firms for his protection," one diplomat said.

Non-Arab Iran across the Gulf remains a major worry despite an improvement in ties after it stoutly opposed Iraq's August 1990 invasion of Iran upset its neighbours by reviving a dispute with the UAE over strategic Gulf islands last year. Its brand of radical Islam causes unease although this has mellowed since President Akbar Hashe-mi Rafsanjani came to power four years ago. Iran's purchase of a Russian submarine, for example, has sent the other Gulf states scurrying for naval anti-submarine capabilities, military sources in the region say.

Paradoxically Iranian Defence Minister Akbar Turkan was among those who came to Abu Dhabi for the show, saying Tehran can offer a wide

France's Giat industries won a $3.5 billion contract Sunday for 390 LeClerc main battle tanks, with 56 support and recovery vehicles, part of a massive armour upgrade by the Gulf Cooperation Council states Cooperation Council states — Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, the UAE, major arms exhibition, one of the biggest ever staged in the region.

which opened here Sunday.

More than 350 companies from 34 countries are attending the five-day exhibition, and military sources said other major deals are in the pipeline amid a region wide arms buildup by the GCC states following the 1991 Gulf war.

Military sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the new UAE defence command-and-control system will likely be was the second major deal announced by the UAE at a integrated with those of other late last year. It will replace part of the system Kuwait lost in the Westinghouse, the world's largest producer of advanced radar sensor and system technolwill start construction of the UAE network in the next few

The whole system, with two more phases, will take four years to complete.

It will link air bases, radar installations and communications networks into a centralised system for surveillance of aircraft entering UAE airspace.

The emirates' air defences in clude Crotale surface-to-air mis-siles sold to the UAE by France

during fighting and loobing in the area (AFP photo)

Kuwaiti emir tightens penalties for corruption

Kuwait, Sheikh Jaber Al Ahmad Al Sabah, has approved a law stiffening penalties for embezzlement and giving parliament the right to monitor state investments, the government gazette said Monday.

It said "law number one of 1993, regarding the protection of public money" also required the state and companies in which the state had at least a 25 per cent stake to report all investment transactions to government auditing authorities within 10 days. The gazette said the head of the auditing authority could ex-tend the 10-day deadline in some Parliament drafted the law and approved it last month in response to widespread concern over losses of $5 billion from Kuwaiti investments in Spain.

Under the law, which covers crimes committed abroad, the maximum penalty for the most serious category of deliberate misuse of public funds is raised to. life imprisonment from 10 years and the minimum penalty to seven years from a fine. Offenders who fall under the most serious category would be ordered to repay to the state twice the amount of any public money missing as a result of their actions, the gazette said.

The penalty for a less serious category, including negligent misuse of public funds and the delaying of reports of investment decisions to state audit authorities, would be a maximum of three years and a minimum of a

The law gives the attorney general the authority to confiscate the assets of fraud suspects

Afghan fighters loot homes during ceasefire

KABUL (R) — Islamic guerrillas Monday took advantage of a tot-tering ceasefire marking the fourth anniversary of the Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan to loot the homes of Kabul resi-

In the shell-shattered western suburb of Afshawr, government Mujahedeen fighters picked through deserted homes and shops and carried away refrigerators, carpets and blankets.

The rumble of rockets and artillery shook the area in the morning and machinegun fire erupted around the abandoned Russian embassy in the south despite a ceasefire announced by the Islamic government and its radical Hezb-e-Islami opponents.

Pakistani peace broker, retired Lieutenant-General Hamid Gul, shuttled between President Burhanuddin Rabbani and Hezbe-Islami chief Gulbuddin Hekmatyar to try to transform Sunday's temporary ceasefire into a permanent truce.

It was unclear who was involved in the morning's sporadic shooting and the city was comparatively quiet after four weeks of fierce battles that have killed hundreds of civilians and injured more than 5,000. One hospital reported 14 injured.

In the west of Kabul, where the army has made substantial adv-Hekmatyar, a government Muahedeen fighter was leaving with an oil heater strapped to his

"This is good looting," one smiling soldier said as he pushed a cart loaded with a refrigerator and several tables.

One fighter grinned sheepishly when his companion said the carpet they were carrying "is not really ours." Another drove a van loaded with blankets out of the nearby state orphanage.

Residents fleeing the area, devastated by months of fighting since the Mujahedeen took power from the Soviet-installed government last April, told of robberies, looting and killings of Shiite residents by majority Sunni government troops. "They came into my house and took everything," wept one woman who said her three brothers had been killed. The guerrillas said they were retaliating for similar looting by Shiite Mujahedeen. "The Hezb-e-Wahdat looted our areas," said the soldier pushing the cart. "So we are just doing the same."

Kabul, which emerged relatively unscathed at the end of the 14-year war of resistance, has been the scene of some of the fiercest rocket and artillery bombardments of the war between rival Mujahedeen parties since last April.

Both Mr. Rabbani and Mr. Hekmatvar declared ceasefires to mark the departure of the last Soviet soldiers, who crossed the Oxus River from Afghanistan to Tajikistan on the afternoon of

"Look at these Muslims," scoffed one angry resident of Afshawr pointing to a group of Mujahedeen loaded with booty. Some soldiers were looking for Shiites, . many of whom come from the central Hazarajat region. Both Sunnis and Shiites and tit-for-tat kidnappings. One Mujahedeen fighter Wahdat now aligned with Mr. car of a foreign reporter and asked: "Have you any hazaras have reported alleged atrocities with you?" In the social sciences institute. the former headquarters of Hezbe-Wahdat leader Abbul Ali Mazari that was taken by the government late last week, soldiers showed the bodies of eight young Hezb-e-Wahdat fighters laid out outside.

"There are many more bodies around the hills," one comman-

In Mr. Mazari's former office portraits of the late Iranian leader Avatoliah Ruhollah Khomeini had been slashed, bullets were scattered on the floor and Mujahedeen were rifling through medicine supplies.

Arabs reported killed

Nine Arabs fighting with the guerrillas in Afghanistan have been killed in a clash in Kabul and 15 injured in the fighting were brought to Pakistan Monday for treatment, sources said in Peshawar, Pakistan.

The casualties occurred in a clash with government troops near Kabul's Bala Hissar Fort, they said.

Among those killed were a Palestinian, a Saudi, an Algerian. a Syrian and a Kuwaiti. The dead were buried south of Kabul. The injured were taken to Peshawar's Al Fozan Hospital, run by a Kuwait aid group, and to an Afghan-run hospital.

MIDDLE EAST NEWS IN BRIEF

Iranian ayatollah arrested — opposition

PARIS (R) — A senior Iranian religious leader, once designated as successor to Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, has been arrested after denouncing the country's current spiritual leader, ex-President Abolhasan Bani Sadr said Monday, Mr. Bani Sadr, who lives in exile in France, said in a statement that Ayatollah Hossein. Ali Montazeri, one of Ayatollah Khomeini's closest companions during the revolution that ousted the Shah in 1979, was arrested Saturday at his home in the city of Qorn, south of Tehran, and taken to the capital. The arrest followed an attack by armed men on Ayatollah Montazeri's house last Friday in which three of his aides were killed, Mr. Bani Sadr said. His office said the information came from aides to Ayatoltah Montazeri. Mr. Bani Sadr said Ayatollah Montazeri came under attack after denouncing the current spiritual leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei, and the head of the assembly of experts which examines legislation, Ayatollah Ali Meshkini. He said Ayatollah Montazeri described them as agents of the U.S. Central Intelligence agency who had plotted to remove him as Ayatollah Khomeini's successor.
Ayatollah Khomeini died in 1989. Ayatollah Meshkini responded by attacking Ayatollah Montazeri in a sermon at prayers last Friday, saying he had been removed because he was "mentally deficient"

Yemen's judges strike over lack of protection

SANAA (R) - Yemeni judges have gone on strike to protest against the government's inability to protect them from a spate of recent attacks, the judges union has said. The general assembly for the judicial forum said in a statement released Sunday night that judges began an open-ended strike Saturday following an attack on the head of the local court in Khamir, 80 kilometres east of Sanaa. It said the wife of Judge Ahmad Abdul Khaleq Hanash was killed after the couple were shot at in the night. It did not give further details. The statement said there had been 12 previous attacks on judges, but did not mention any other killings. "In view of the repeated requests from judicial authorities that they be provided with protection...the general assembly has decided to stop work from Saturday until firm action is taken against suchattacks," the statement said. There have been no media reports about the attacks which appear to be part of a spate of lawlessness in the past few months that has included the kidnapping of foreigners, cost of living riots and fundamentalist attacks on

Aoun in new residence outside Paris

MELUN. France (AP) - Lebanese General Michel Aoun; spending a five-year exile from his country in France, discreetly moved from his sumptuous Marseille residence Monday to a village east of Paris. A cortege of four cars and a motorcycle preceded Gen. Aoun into the vast wooded grounds of his new home in the village of Haute Maison, near the town of Cressy-la-Chapelle, about 50 kilometres from the capital in the Seine et Marne region. Gen. Aoun had travelled north from Marseille in a military plane. The house reportedly belongs to a friend of Gen. Aoun. A delegation of local officials recently lodged a protest against the arrival of Gen. Aoun, but were given assurances his presence would in no way interfere with daily life of the area. The foreign ministry recently confirmed rumours that Gen. Aoun, in France since Aug. 30, 1991, would change residences at his request. Gen. Aoun, 57, headed a Christian military government in Lebanon from September 1988 until Oct. 13, 1990, when he was removed from power following a military offensive by Syrian and Lebanese forces. Fearing for his life, he took refuge in the French embassy where he spent 321 days. He was condemned to five years exile by the Lebanese state and, after lengthy negotiations, was taken in by France. Gen. Aounwas living under heavy protection in a villa on the Corniche Kennedy in Marseille, guarded by Crack French troops, riot police and a patrol boat that plied the waters in front of his house. Specialists have estimated the cost to France of his guarded life at 100,000 francs (about $10,500) per day.

Greenpeace criticises Turkish nuclear plan

ISTANBUL (R) — The environmentalist group Greenpeace Monday criticised the Turkish government's plan to build a nuclear power plant at Akkuyu on the Mediterranean coast. "The declared intention to build a nuclear power station in Akkuyu near Mersin could be catastrophic not only for Turkey but for the region as a whole," a Greenpeace statement said. "This development would not only be a danger in itself but also help set a trend-which will make it easier for other countries in the region to follow," the statement said. In January. Turkey's Electricity authority (TEK) announced plans to build two 1,066-Megawatt nuclear power plants by the year 2010, one at Akkuyu and the other possibly at Sinop on the Black Sea coast. TEK said the nuclear plants would help meet electricity.shortfalls and be part of an ambitious project to quadruple Turkey's annual generating capacity to 350 billion kilowatt hours by the year 2010. Turkey is expected to begin building the Akkuyu plant in 1966. Plans to build a smaller nuclear plant at Akkuvu existed in the late 1970s. but were abandoned after the 1980 military coup. Greenpeace said Western European countries were shutting down nuclear plants and scrapping projects since the Chemobyl disaster. "In view of the unpopularity the nuclear industry has earned in the the developed world, it is now looking for markets in the developing world," the statement said.

K₆₂₉

Velayati heads for Latin America

ARRIVALS

NICOSIA (AP) — Iranian Foreign Minister Ali Akbar Velayati left Tehran for Brazil Monday to start a week-long trip also taking him to Cuba and Mexico, the official Islamic Republic News Agency (IRNA) reported. Mr. Velavati headed an economic and political delegation and will discuss bilateral relations and cooperation with Brazilian officials. IRNA reported in a briefdispatch monitored by the Associated Press in Nicosia. A meeting of the Iran-Brazil joint economic commission will be held during Mr. Velayati's visit to Brasilia, IRNA said. No other details were

Israeli general sees Iran posing non-conventional threat TEL AVIV (AP) - An Israeli and only recently such means general has urged his country and the international community to "do everything" to prevent Iran from obtaining nonconventional Gen. Zev Livni, the head of a special command unit appointed in the wake of the Gulf war, said on army radio Sunday that the Israeli public was under increasing threat of attack due also to arms buildups in Syria as well as Libva and Algeria. Asked about newspaper reports predicting Iran could have an atomic bomb by 1999. Gen. Livni said that Israel was "following all the developments, also in countries farther away such as "Israel and the international community must do everything, were proven against Iraq, to prevent Iran from arming itself with nonconventional weapons." Gen. Livni added.

He also said that "in any future war, if one happens, the home front must be seen as a potential Gen. Livni was appointed to his post after the 1991 war by U.S. allies against Iraq, when Israelis were on a chemical attack alert because of repeated warnings by Iraq that it would use such

In all 39 Scud missiles were fired at Israel during that war, all tipped with conventional war-

> Iran vows to finish President Hashemi Rafsanjani of Iran has pledged to complete a nuclear power plant abandoned by the German firm building it when the Shah of Iran was overthrown in 1979, state-run Iranian radio reported Monday.

Mr. Rafsanjani, inspecting the site Sunday of the Dushehr nuclear power plant in southern Iran, said that Tehran remains determined to put the facility into operation with or without German firms, said the radio.

Iran will attempt to obtain the resources and equipment necessary to complete the plant conforming to international standards the radio quoted Mr. Rafsanjani as saying.

Germany's Kraftwerke Union. a subsidiary of Siemens, began building the facility in 1975 as part of the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi's ambitious nuclear programme.

The project, which was planned to have two 13,000-megawatt reactors, was abandoned after the Islamic revolution when the olant was about 80 per cent completed. The uncompleted plant was bombed by Iraqi warplanes during the 1980-88 Iran-Iraq war. Tehran Radio reported last year that Iran had opened discussions with China on building nuclear power stations. Iran has embarked on a huge effort to upgrade its national electric grid, including hydro and oil fired generating plants. The exiled Iranian opposition group, Mujahedeen-e-Khalq, accuses the plant of being a secret facility in a programme to develop nuclear weapons.

JORDAN TIMES DAILY GUIDE AND CALENDAR

630341

JORDAN TELEVISION Tel: 773111-19

PPACE	AMME TWO
	Michael Vatlant
	La Familie Randai
	News in French
19:15	Roportage
19:30	News in Hebrew
29:06	News in Arabic
	Perfect Strangers
20.20	The District Durant
21:10	The Dirtwater Dynasty
22:20	Bıg Man
PRAYER TIMES

St. Mary of		areth (Church Sw	cifici
Tel. X10740		_
Astemblies	œ	God	Charch,	Te 632785.
Si. Joseph	Chm	reb To	:I. 624590	L
Church of	th	Anı	esociation	ં Tન
637440	_
De la Salle	Ch.	T	-I 4417C	,

Charch 623541	of the An	nunciation	7
	Church To	a. 630851, '	ī
Агискіа	a Cathelic	Clearch	T
	a Orthodox	Church	T
	raku Çberçh
682208.	Internations
Evangeli 824328.	cal Lotherns	Charch '	I
	rch of Jesus (ets Tel. 8238)		H
Church	of the Nazare of the Red	se Tel. 675	T

northerly moderate	and	scas ç	alm.
Amman			4 / 19

543.
245. States Catholic Clearch Tel. 331.
estian Orthodox Church Tel. 261 Ephraira Church Tel. 771751, man International Church Tel. 208.
ngelical Lutherns Church Tel;
Church of Jesus Christ of Latter- Saints Tel. 823824, 654932. red of the Nazarene Tel. 675691, reds of the Redeemer Tel. 526.
WEATHER
ctin supplied by the Department of corology.
ight rise in temperatures will take e and winds will be light and able changing to southeasterly crate. In Aqaba, winds will be berly moderate and seas calm.

ren ici,
reh Tel.
71751. irch Tel.	USEFUL TELEPH
erch Tcl;	NUMBERS
of Latter- 1932.	NIGHT DUTY
1, 675691,	AMMAN:
Tel,	Dr. Walcod Kiswani
	Dr. Abbas Al Hakeem
	Dr. Ghazi Abu Sheikha
	Dr. Adnan Al Zughoul
	Fires pharmacy
	Fordows pharmacy
	Al Asema pharmacy
riment of	Nairoukh pharmacy
	Al Salam pharmacy
	Yacoub pharmacy
will take	Shracisani pharmacy Nairouth pharmacy light and theasterly	Najib pharmacy s will be
s celm.	IRBID:
	Dr. Ahmad Qanou
ax. temp,	Alguds pharmacy
0/ ÎI	TAROA.
4 / 19	ZARQA: Dr. Yahya Al Tarifi
2/14 3/18	Khalifeh pharmacy
3718	russica postasty ()
	•

LEPHONE EMERGENCIES Civil Defence Department Civil Defence Immediate

629441	Rescue
ra 885446	Civil Defence Emergency
ha 752405	Civil Defence Emergency
네 898140	Fire Brigade 891228
661912	Blood Bank 775121
778336	Lichum Balina 943407
637055	Highway Police
	Traffic Police
623672	Public Security Department
636730	Hotel Complaints 605800
644945	Price Complaints 661176
637660	Water and Sewerage
623672	Water and Sewerage Complaints
847632
	Consolviers 787111
	Telephone Information .
(—)	(directory assistance)
	Overseas Calls
	Central America Telephone Repeirs
981502	Abdali Telephone Repairs 661 101
	Jordan Television 773111
	30104H CR:46304 173111

774111 Electric Power

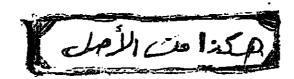

HOSPITALS

Army, Marka 891611/15
Queen Alia Hospital 68610
Arnal Hospital 67415
ZAROA:
Zarga Govt. Hospital (09)98332
Zarqa National Hospital (09)90056
Ibe Sice Massical (05)70000
Ibn Sina Hospital (09)98673
Al Hikma Modern Hospital (09)99099
REID:
Princes Basma Hospital (02)27555
Greek Catholic Hospital (02)27227
The Al Nafees Hospital(02)24710
AQABA:
Princess Haya Hospital(03)31411
······································

FOR THE TRAVELLER QUEEN ALIA INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

This information is supplied by Royal Jordanian (RI) information departmtorntation depart-ca Alla laternational ment at the Oueen Alla In Airport Tel. (08)53200-5.

Borrel Jandarilaa (B. D. Br. L.	92:38 Aden (RI)
Royal Jordanian (RJ) Flights (Terminal 1)	Other Flights (Terminal 2)
85-30	12:15 Larnaca, Vienna (OS) 17:45 Dufoi (AZ) 01:00 Bucharest (RO)
	MARKET PRICES
19:15 Frankfurt, Victor (RJ)	Upper/lower price in fils per kg. Apple
Other Flights (Terminal 2)	Beans (MUCERREII2F) 640 / 640
M:46	Carrot
DEPARTURES Royal Jordanian (RJ) Flights (Terminal 1)	Eggplant 320 / 250 Garlic 650 / 550 Grapefynit 450 / 550
67:80	Marrow (large) 270 / 200 Marrow (small) 440 / 380 Mint
11:30	Onion (dry) 210 / 180 Onion (green) 240 / 180 Orange 400/160 Pepper (hot) 380 / 280
28:30	Pepper (sweet)
	240 180

J.S. experts say linton team should lay more active ole in peace talks

By Stephanie Genkin Special to the Jordan Times

MMAN - As U.S. Secretary State Warren Christopher ars his Middle East tour to help mp start the stalled Arabraeli peace talks, the Arab orld is anxiously awaiting a sign om Washington indicating the rection of the Clinton adminisation's policies in the region. The Arabs, however, should took for major policy adjust-ents on the Middle East under ment to the process," explained linton's administration which, xording to two American exerts on the region, would be milar to former president corge Bush's approach to the President of the Middle East stitute Robert Keeley and Vice esident Paul Hare expect U.S. resident Bill Clinton to continue e policies of his predecessor. But Mr. Keeley believes the ke a more active role in the gion if it wants to push forward e Arab-Israeli peace process hich was brokered by the forer administration.

According to Mr. Keeley, a ormer U.S. ambassador to 19 Payreece, there has been no agosing reappraisal of the peace rocess, indicating that Clinton nd his team will pick up where e Bush administration left off

Fearing that all parties conrned are growing impatient ith the 15 month peace talks. ie to lack of progress. Mr. eeley believes that the new iministration should take a ore active role.

"Personally I wish it would get ore a directly involved than the st administration," he said. Although Mr. Keeley does not Ivocate U.S. participation in the gotiations, he believes that the .S. role should go beyond pro-

"I would like to see the U.S. opose formulae on its own." r. Keeley explained, adding at he did not favour applying essure to any one party to the While Mr. Hare admitted that it's difficult from the outside to determine at what point the U.S. should be more actively engaged. he pointed to the history of peace-making in the Middle East as a reason for the U.S. to increase its involvement when the negotiations resume. "(The success of) Kissinger's shuttle diplomacy, Camp David and the process leading to Madrid were the result of American commit-

Mr. Hare. According to Mr. Keeley, the secretary of state's visit to the region, scheduled to begin Thursday, is two fold: to revive the peace talks and to seek advice from key Arab leaders as to how to deal with Iraq

However, both agreed that they are not overly optimistic about the advice Mr. Christopher will receive during his scheduled meetings with Arab leaders.

"The Arabs are usually creative in proposing solutions," explained Mr. Keeley, and added that he has not heard of any scheme to deal with Iraq.

Both of the Middle East Institute executives agree that President Saddam Hussein's most recent overtures to tone down the conflict with the U.S. will be looked upon with mistrust in Washington.

"Everything he (Saddam Hus-sein) says will be looked at with caution and great scepticism. There is a problem of confidence in his word," said Mr. Hare, a former U.S. ambassador to Zam-

The U.S. policy regarding Iraq will stay on its present course, said Mr. Hare, "unless there is something alluring. I'm not sure what that could be," he added.

The Washington-based Middle East Institute, established in 1946, is a non-partisan organisation working to increase the American public's awareness and understanding of the region.

Mr. Keeley and Mr. Hare are concluding a 4-week visit to the region in an effort to prepare the institute's programming for the upcoming year.

HOME NEWS IN BRIEF

Princess Alia to attend graduation in Madaba

MADABA (Petra) - Her Royal Highness Princess Alia Bint Al

Hussein will attend Thursday the graduation ceremony of the ninth batch of the Friends of Tourism at Princess Basma School in

Madaba. Director of Madaba Tourism Office Ghaleb Masarweh said the graduates were enrolled in a course which was organised by the office in cooperation with the Madaba Education Department. During the three-week period of the course, the participants attended lectures by writers and journalists specialised in tourism. About 800 students have graduated from the programme

Jordan's delegation visits Uzbek President Karimov

TASHKENT (Petra) - Chief Chamberlain Prince Ra'd Ben Zeid

conveyed Monday a message from His Majesty King Hussein to Uzbek President Islam Karimov congratulating him on his country's independence day and inviting him to visit Jordan.

Prince Ra'd, who is currently heading a Jordanian delegation on a tour of the Islamic republics of the former Soviet Union, discussed with Mr. Karimov issues of common interest between

Jordan and Uzbekistan. Mr. Karimov accepted King Hussein's invitation to visit Jordan and praised His Majesty's stands on the various international conflicts and the Middle East peace process.

Commending achievements accomplished in Jordan under King enhance Jordanian-Uzbek relations. The delegation met with Jordanian students studying at Uzbek universities and conveyed to them the greetings of King Hussein. The delegation will leave

Cabinet approves tree donation to Lebanon

AMMAN (Petra) - The Cabinet has approved a recommendation by the Minister of Agriculture to donate 250,000 forest saplings to the Lebanese Ministry of Agriculture to replant the Kabariti discusses labour law with unions

AMMAN (Petra) - Minister of Labour Abdul Karim Al Kabariti

net Monday with Secretary General of the Federation of lordanian Labour Unions Khaled Shreim and several federation officials and discussed the new draft labour law to be taken up by he Cabinet Tuesday. Discussions at the meeting centred on the iews of labourers. The meeting also reviewed Articles 28 and 31 of the draft law, dealing with industrial relations, labourers' rights

Sataineh attends Arabisation meeting in Bahrain

MMAN (Petra) - A Jordanian delegation led by Health linister Aref Bataineh left Amman for Manama, Bahrain londay to participate in a conference on "Arabising Medical ducation in the Arab World." The three-day conference will scuss issues related to Arabising the education of medicine and edical sciences in Arab universities and colleges. The Jordanian legation will present proposals on drafting a comprehensive un for writing medical books and encouraging the translation of ast Amman's needy to receive assistance

4MAN (Petra) - Director of East Amman Social Develop-nt Department Adel Hijazeen Monday said the department recently conducted several social studies on needy families in tern Amman areas to define their needs and offer them urrent assistance. Mr. Hijazeen said social studies were also iducted on juveniles and beggars in the area to help solve their blems. The department, he said, plans on expanding its vices and facilitating procedures facing citizens who apply for eign medical publications into Arabic.

iorest areas affected by the civil war in Lebanon.

nd the investment climate.

Tuesday for Turkmenistan on the fifth leg of their tour.

Hussein, Mr. Karimov said his government will do its utmost to since it was initiated, Mr. Masarweh said.

Jordan's first oesophageal hiatus hernia surgery finds patient in good condition.

By a Jordan Times Staff Reporter

AMMAN — An Oesophageal hiatus hernia operation, the first of its kind in Jordan and the region, was conducted by a team of surgeons, led by Khalaf Raqqad, at the Queen Alia Military Hospital in Amman.

The patient was reported in good condition. Dr. Raqqad told the Jordan Times that the 55 year-old Jordanian woman who underwent the operation had been suffering from inflamation conducted in this field. of the gullet for 10 years but she will now be completely cured operation, Dr. Raqqad said other after the four-hour surgery which was conducted Sunday

He said the patient will be kept under surveillance for three to four days before she can be discharged from hospital, because this kind of surgery has not been done before in the country.

Dr. Raqqad said a surgical laparoscope was inserted into the abdomen of the woman during the operation, one of the most critical and sensitive ever to be operations on the intestines, the gullet and the stomach could be conducted using the laparoscope. He added that he led a team of hospital surgeons in two surgeries for the excision of the uterus using the same technique.

He said he was assisted by Dr. Hassan Malkawi, Dr. Mohammad Daboubi, Dr. Mohammad Hammad and Dr. Hanan Rihani in the two operations.

Dr. Raqqad was assisted Sunday by Dr. Hanan Rihani and Dr. Following the success of this Ahmad Arabiyat.

International fraud meeting addresses growing problem

AMMAN (Petra) — Commercial Commerce (ICC). fraud has become complicated and inter-related to the extent that it now requires coordinated efforts by concerned organisations and nations to combat it, Ministry of Industry and Trade Secretary General Marwan Awad announced Monday. Addressing a day-long meeting held at the Amman Chamber of Commerce on maritime crime and international commercial fraud, Mr. Awad said the victims of such crimes pin their hopes on and are closely cooperating with the International Maritime

Bureau (IMB) to curtail these The meeting, dealing with ways to combat international trading fraud and piracy on the high seas, was organised by IMB in cooperation with the Jordanian Shipping Agents Association (SAA) and the International Chamber of The convening now of such meeting assumes significance in view of the growing number of international fraud cases and maritime crimes reported recently, Mr. Awad said. He urged all concerned na-tions to facilitate the work of

IMB and to introduce laws and regulations to strictly deal with such crimes. SAA President Tawfig Kawar said in an address, the meeting in Amman was the first of its kind to be organised in the Kingdom. International trading fraud committed by professionals is difficult to trace since the perpetrators involved assume senior positions in banks, insurance companies, chambers of commerce. shipping lines and other international organisations, Mr. Kawar

He said that acts of piracy, waters off the Yemeni coast.

which began off the coast of Algeria, have now reached the Red Sea, threatening inter-Arab

The meeting, attended by in-ternational and regional experts in maritime transport and trade. reviewed a number of studies and research papers dealing with maritime fraud

According to Mr. Kawar, Jordanian banks, insurance companies and merchants have sustained huge losses as a result of

As recently as last December. Reuters reported that a Thai cargo ship was attacked by pirates who killed the ship's engineer and wounded its captain and two crew

Mr. Kawar said the ship had just left Aqaba with a cargo of phosphate bound for Sri Lanka and was attacked in international

Montreal Fund grants Jordan $500,000 to protect ozone layer

AMMAN (J.T.) — The Montreal Fund for the protection of the ozone layer is granting Jordan $500,000 as initial step in helping it to find alternate industrial materials that cause no damage to the earth's ozone, Ghazi Oudat, a semior official at the Ministry of Municipal and Rural Affairs and the Environment, said.

Mr. Oudat said in a statement that the funds will be channelled to Jordanian industries including the Jordan Petroleum Refinery Company (JPRC), which will be encouraged to produce liquefied gas for Jordanian factories instead of the present materials that are damaging to the ozone layer. a programme with the concerned Montreal Protocol.

Jordan is a signatory to the Montreal Protocol of 1987 which established a $240 million fund provided by the industrialised nations to help developing countries opt for materials considered The Montreal Protocol also bans import and export operations involving all materials considered harmful to the stratosphere's protective layer. A team of experts from the Montreal Fund is currently on a visit to Jordan to meet with officials and visit sites and factories where harmful materials are being used, Mr. Oudat explained. The experts will also work out public and private authorities to provide regular help to Jordanian industries in avoiding the use of chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) which destroy the earth's ozone.

The Montreal conference of 1987 decided to phase out CFCs by the year 2000. According to Mr. Oudat the Montreal Fund team will stay in Jordan until February 24. Minister of Municipal and Rural Affairs and the Environment Abdul Razzak Tubeishat last November attended an interna-Arabian universities are combintional conference in Copenhagen ing their efforts to work out dedicated to finding mechanisms programmes on safe disposal of for the implementation of the rammes adopted by advanced nations, according to Ibrahim Alem, head of a visiting delega-

Agricultural processing meeting to discuss Spain's experience

Agriculture Fayez Khasawneh Monday said Jordan was trying to benefit from Spain's vast experience in agriculture in order to promote sales of its own agricultural produce to European

In a statement following the opening of a meeting of Spanish and Jordanian agricultural pro-duction experts, the minister said Spain's know-how, particularly in cultivating and automated harvesting of olives, producing olive oil, and processing of agricultural produce will be the focus of the meetings.

Dr. Khasawneh said the discussions are expected to conclude with the adoption of a practical programme for future cooperapublic sectors of both countries. The two-day round-table meet-Jordanian and Spanish governments in response to a proposal by His Royal Highness Crown Prince Hassan during his visit to Spain last May, said Spanish Ambassador to Jordan Juan Manuel Cabrera at the opening

The Spanish government has welcomed bilateral cooperation of the food processing industries of Jordan and Spain in the private and public sectors, and the meeting was the first fruit of this cooperation, the ambassador

He added that it is hoped that the meeting will result in closer cooperation between the two riott Hotel, ment provided for cooperation in cultural, technological and scientific fields.

participation in last year's Seville Expo encouraged both countries to boost cooperation in other fields, including the food processing industry. The minister added that Spain and Jordan have maintained

tourism, culture and science. The round-table meetings are being held at the Amman Mar-

AMMAN (Petra) - Minister of tion in projects by the private and countries in implementation of an agreement signed by Jordan and Spain during the Spanish foreign ing is being organised by the minister's visit to Jordan last

> Dr. Alem met with JUST Pres-Mr. Cabrera said the agreeident Kamel Ajlouni and discussed cooperation in safeguarding the environment and disposing of dangerous and chemical waste. Dr. Khasawneh said Jordan's

He said the visit to JUST came as part of ongoing consultations between the two universities. The visit also follows the Saudi delegation's tour of several centres in the United States and the United Kingdom which handle harmful waste. long-standing cooperation in Jordan was one of 110 nations to sign a 1989 international agreement on controlling the disposal of dangerous waste.

His Majesty King Hussein confers the Istikial Medal of the First Order on the speaker of N.

(Petra photo)

King accepts N. Korean invitation

Majesty King Hussein received Monday at the Royal Court Speaker of the Korean People's Assembly Yang Hyung Sop and the delegation accompanying him. At the meeting, King Hussein stressed the need to enhance Jordanian-North Korean relations and cooperation in issues of common interest.

The King also reiterated Jordan's commitment to defending "the noble causes of freedom, democracy, human rights and the interests of the world nations.

His Majesty accepted an in-vitation extended to him by North Korean President Kim Il-Sung to visit Korea. The head of the delegation.

which arrived in Amman Friday on a week-long visit to Jordan, conveyed to King Hussein the greetings of the Ko-rean president and his appreciation of the King's policies and services for the causes of peace. Third World countries. democracy and human rights.

Mr. Hyung Sop also commended Jordan's achievements under King Hussein.

At the end of the meeting the King conferred the Al Istiklal Medal of the First Order upon Mr. Hyung Sop. The meeting was attended by Lower House of Parliament Speaker Abdul Latif Arabiyat, Royal Court Chief Khaled Al Karaki, Lower House First Deputy Speaker Mohammad Adoub Al Zaben and the North Korean ambassador in Amman.

On Monday Mr. Hyung Sop and the accompanying delegation also visited the Royal Scientific Society (RSS).

Mr. Hyung Sop, accompa-nied by Mr. Zaben, was briefed on the establishmen; of the RSS and its national role. He also visited the Jordan University of Science and Technology (JUST) where he met with University President

Kamel Ajlouni. The two discussed scopes of cooperation between JUST and North Korean universities in academic and technical

Dr. Ajlouni briefed Mr. Hyung Sop and the accompanying delegation on the establishment and goals of JUST, pointing out that the university had in a short period of time established cooperation ties with many Arab and foreign universities. The Korean delegation then toured the university's various faculties and departments.

Women make their mark Jordanians. Saudis team up on waste

tion from Saudi Arabia's King

Fahd University of Petroleum

Dr. Alem said in a meeting in

Irbid that King Fahd University and the Jordan University of Science and Technology (JUST) are and Minerals.

women traffic cops got no redisposal Male motorists, on edge at the best of times in this bustling city, IRBID (Petra) -- Teachers and treated them as a joke when they specialists at Jordanian and Saudi hit the streets in 1986.

The women were given other duties. Today, despite the increase in Islamic conservate influence and growing male unemployment, the lot of Jordan's policewomen is improving. The force is even considering putting them back on traffic duty - but in a gradual manner and after completing some studies. "In the beginning my male jointly spearheading the encolleagues used to wince when deavour to benefit the Arab they had to salute me. But now the situation is normal," Jordan's top policewoman, Lieutenant-Colonel Hind Fouad Hammouka, told Reuters.

"A lot of people rejected the idea of women joining the police. People used to criticise women police officers and women really wanting to join faced family opposition because they saw her as becoming a man," explained the brown-eyed mother of four. Mrs. Hammouka, 39, says the Kingdom's 700 women police officers now carry out most of the ching exercises. duties of their male colleagues, including riot control, cracking down on drug smuggling and VIP protection.

Previously, they performed a as searching women entering government buildings, typing and other clerical and administrative other motivational slogans, the

"Compared to other Arab flaming hoops. states, we have reached a very advanced stage and we are always striving to improve," Hammouka

"Our standard is closer to that of the European countries... the led fear."

on Jordan's police force have with those in the West is that they do not organise traffic.'

By Rana Sabbagh Reuter

Women entered Jordan's AMMAN - Jordan's first police force for the first time in 1972 with the encouragement of His Majesty King Hussein, seek-ing to widen their role in society and modernise Jordan. Three years later, he gave them

The men harassed them or, the right to vote and stand for worse still, flirted with them outthe right to vote and stand for appointed two women as minis-

Today women from 11 per cent of the Jordanian workforce with some of them working as lawyers. doctors and senior civil servants. Mrs. Hammouka comes from a police family. Her father was a police officer as are her three brothers.

"Society has really changed over the past 20 years," she said. "Attitudes have changed, society has developed and people have become more educated. People's acceptance of police women has improved but I cannot say that acceptance is 100 per cent."

Architect Marcel Samarneh, 22, is among the latest batch of Jordanians seeking to become a policewoman.

"In the first week I was only crying. "Everything was tough, she said at the Princess Basma Police Women Training Academy which offers a six-month course.

Dressed in green training fatigues, she was limping from a foot injury sustained in tough mar-On a nearby hill, 32 graduates were being trained in special commando operations that included jumping from high towers and helicopters, live ammunition much more traditional role such firing and rescuing hostages trapped in a house. Shouting "Allah" (God) and women then jumped through "These exercises offer the real qualitative leap that takes them from civil to military life," said a male instructor.

"Here they forget anything cal-

TENDER NOTICE

The Directorate of Projects Services/Ministry of Education announces the tendering of the following tender which is part of the American Tender No.

Fees JD 5.000

Computer

Interested bidders are invited to collect tender documents from Procurement Division of the Directorate of Projects Services/Ministry of Education, starting February 13th, 1993 against the payment of the above fees.

Closing date will be 11:00 a.m. of March 20th, 1993 Head of Special Tenders Committee Khalid Al Ghazzawi

WHAT'S GOING ON

The following listings are compiled from monthly bulletins and the daily Arabic press. Readers are advised to verify the listed time and place with the concerned institutions.

EXHIBITIONS

🛱 Exhibition entitled "Modernist Still Life Photographed" at the American Centre.

★ Exhibition of watercolour paintings by Syrian artist Nazir Nab's at Baladna Art Gallery. ☆ Exhibition of paintings by the late Syrian artist Alfred Hatmal at Al Balqa Art Gallery in Fuheis city. ☆ Exhibition of paintings by four Arab artists from the United States - Chada Jamal, Helen Khal, Suha Noursi and Afaf Zurayk — at the Abdul Hameed Shoman Foundation Gallery in Jahal Amman, between the First and Second Circles. * Exhibition of photographs by Jean-Philippe Reverdot at the French Cultural Centre.

★ Exhibition of paintings by Iraqi artist Hayat Jamil Hafez at Alia Art Gallery. Exhibition of Romanian textile machineries at the Jordanian Textiles Company in Marka.

LECTURE

A Lecture on "The Work of the German Protestant Institute for Archaeology, Amman" by Institute Director Susanne Kerner at the Ghoethe Institute - 7 p.m.

U.S. welcomes Jordanian exports

AMMAN (J.T.) — A drive by tate the imports of Jordanian the Jordanian Trade Association national products. (JTA) to market national products in the United States was and businessmen as ranking welcomed by Douglas Neumann, among the best in the Arab commercial attache at the U.S. World, Mr. Neumann said that embassy in Amman.

Mr. Neumann was quoted by with them. the Jordan News Agency, Petra. and calling for increased Jordakets as a first step to bolster possible will be done to facilitate economic ties between the two Jordanian exports to American countries.

Addressing a JTA seminar held

Describing Jordanian exporters

the U.S. was eager to do business He listed several U.S. commeras welcoming trade with Jordan cial and economic institutions which Jordanian exporters can nian exports to American mar- contact, adding that everything markets. The meeting, called to discuss at the Amman Marriott Hotel means of increasing the volume Sunday evening. Mr. Neumann of Jordanian products marketed was quoted as saying the con- in the U.S., was addressed by cerned U.S. departments were several speakers from the JTA ready to offer assistance to facili- and Jordanian businessmen.

Karak to survey area's poor

KARAK (Petra) --- Karak Governor Radhi Ibrahim Monday chaired a meeting at the governorate house to discuss means of reducing poverty pockets in Karak governorate. The meeting, which was attended by senior officials in the governorate stressed the need to conduct a comprehensive survey of poor families in the various towns

Chairman of the Board of Directors: MAHMOUD AL KAYED

Director General:

MOHAMMAD AMAD

Editor-in-Chief: GEORGE S. HAWATMEH

Editorial and advertising offices: Jordan Press Foundation, University Road, P.O. Box 6710, Amman, Jordan.

Telephones: 667171/6, 679141-4 Telex: 21497 ALRAI JO Facsimile: 661242

The Jordan Times is published daily except Fridays. Subscription and advertising rates are available from the Jordan Times advertising department.

Solid on the right only

JORDAN'S POLITICAL landscape is littered with political parties that will compete in this year's parliamentary elections, but the weight seems more solid on the right than on either the centre or left. The Muslim Brotherhood, the most powerful political bloc in Parliament, is leading independent Islamists in the newly formed Islamic Action Front (IAF). The front can rely in any election campaign on two important factors: One, the increasing tendency in our society to go back to religion and to have more faith in religious leaders; and, two, the well prepared and experienced machinery and members of the Muslim Brotherhood organisation.

The centre and left parties are lacking in both regards. The so-called centrists, who mostly rely on experienced establishment leaders and politicians and tribal leaders, face many problems, whether ideological, organisational or otherwise. The erosion and weakening of tribal affiliations in modern Jordan, coupled with the failure of establishment politicians and tribal leaders to present workable political alternatives, will make their job in the elections extremely difficult, to say

The left, meanwhile, has lost its glamour and appeal as a result of the failure of its political and social agenda in countries like Egypt, Syria, Iraq and, more importantly perhaps, the Soviet Union and the Eastern Bloc.

But the most important factor in the weakness of both the centre and left as compared to the right is their fragmentation into small, ineffective groups. While the right, as mainly represented by the Muslim Brotherhood, has managed to bring under its umbrella, the IAF and all shades of Islamist thought, the left and the centre are too divided and weak to even get their act together and merge into bigger groups and parties. It goes without saying that unless they form larger coalitions their impact in the next elections will definitely be negligible. We recognise the formidable task facing the leftists and centrists, but all hope should not be lost right away. If they do not start something today to end their fragmentation, they will be overwhelmed by the power and agenda of the right.

We are not, nor are about to take sides in the political tussle in Jordan. What is our greatest concern at this moment in our history, however, is that the democratic process continues and progresses. For that to happen all political shades need to be active, strong and alert on the same level. Otherwise we will be drowned by a single agenda that at times seems to be a little too rightist for our taste and that of Jordan.

ARABIC PRESS COMMENTARIES

AL RA'l daily Monday commented on the creation of a centre for freedom, democracy and human rights and King Hussein's address to the founding committee. Echoing the King's words that the centre will serve as a beacon for others, dissipating the darkness, the paper said that the creation of the centre will be a historic move, enabling the Arab Nation to come to life again following years of slumber. The King has initiated the centre in order to spread the Jordanian message of freedom and democracy and in order to help implement the principles and ideas of the Great Arab Revolt in the Arab World, said the daily. The paper said that the King wanted this centre to remind the Arab Nation of the danger inherent in repression, divisions, civil wars and narrow-mindedness. In his address, the King laid the course for the free and true Arabs to work for the attainment of justice and for the protection of Arab human rights, and to open the way for the coming unity among the Arab states, added the paper. It said that the speech was directed to the free Arabs to rise to the platform of freedom, reason and dignity and to shoulder the responsibility of liberating the Arabs and ensuring their freedom and democracy.

A COLUMNIST in Al Dustour criticised Lebanon and Syria for agreeing to resume the peace negotiations with Israel without a settlement of the Palestinian expellees' question. Hamadeh Faraaneh said that the two countries have given their approval for the resumption of the talks even before the arrival of the U.S. secretary of state to the region, later this month, and without securing any gains in exchange for such an approval. The writer said it is regrettable to say Warren Christopher will find himself welcomed in most Arab countries and see facilities given by the Arab regimes wishing to reach peace with Israel. He said that the Jordanians and the Palestinians can, if they want, reject Washington's proposals for a resumption of the talks until the expellees question has been solved. The Jordanians and the Palestinians form a fundamental element to the peace process and it would be almost impossible to resume the talks without them, said the writer. In exchange for the Syrian and Lebanese approval to resume the talks, Israel has offered nothing, said the writer. adding that the expelled men are still exposed to cold, hunger and deprivation while Israelis intransigent stand is more manifest than

The View from Fourth Circle

All-or-nothing usually means nothing

The continuing diplomatic tug-of-war over the fate of the 400 Palestinians expelled to southern Lebanon has taken on important new dimensions with the recent U.N. Security Council acceptance of an American-engineered Israeli "compromise" to return 101 Palestinians immediately and the rest by the end of this year. Most Arab reactions have rejected this compromise as insufficient, claiming that it only aims to defer sanctions against Israel, and that it does not address the root issue of the illegality of the expulsions. The general Arab tendency is to stay away from the Arab-Israeli peace talks until there is a total and immediate return of all the expeliees.

The general Arab tendency, I would suggest, appears once again to be based primarily on emotional hurt, diplomatic weakness and a general inability to sort out the complex and interwoven strands of Arab national means and ends. The maximalist, all-or-nothing approach to diplomacy has been a consistent, proven failure throughout modern Arab history, ever since Egyptians, Hashemites, Palestinians, Lebanese, Syrians and other Arabs engaged the European powers in nationalistic battles and diplomatic negotiations as of the last quarter of the 19th century. Our insistence on all-or-nothing has usually resulted in our getting nothing.

If we blindly insist that we will not resume the peace talks until all the expelled Palestinians are repatriated, we are likely only to prolong the expulsions and delay the peace talks, without forcing a change in Israeli or U.S. policy. We are playing directly into the hands of hardline Arabs and Israelis who want to end the peace talks - at a moment when the majority of Arabs and Israelis want the talks to succeed, and when the talks offer our best chance to check and then to vanquish Zionist aggression. The pressures that forced Israel to make its compromise are precisely the kinds of pressures that we can bring to bear on Israel in the peace talks, where we stand the best chance of achieving our national rights in

The mass expulsions are a painful reminder of the real diplomatic imbalance we suffer today: Israel is militarily strong and we are weak. For us to take an all-or-nothing attitude simply highlights our weakness and the self-destructive futility of our simplistic approach. We are acting like frustrated children who confuse affirmative emotionalism with successful diplomacy. The "compromise" that Israel has offered and that the Security Council has accepted is a relative (not absolute) diplomatic breakthrough for the Arabs. By any standards, it is a step forward for the Arabs, U.N. resolutions, and international legitimacy. There are several hundred previous Security Council resolutions that Israel has ignored, and this is perhaps the first time in modern history that Israel has modified and partly reversed its actions on the basis of Arab and international diplomatic pressure. This partial victory should not be destroyed because we did not win a total victory. The fact is, we have never won a total victory against Israel and its American supporters, and we will not win one by allowing our pride and disjointed political machismo to overwhelm our sense of rationality and diplomatic realism.

For those who still enjoy the composure to recognise a step forward when they make it, this "compromise", however imperfect, should be seen as a clear sign of the times, and a pointer to the direction in which diplomatic things are moving: Israel's gradual diplomatic isolation as one of the world's few remaining occupying powers is reducing its room for manoeuvre, and slowly forcing it to comply with international norms of conduct. The hard fact for the Arabs is that we have to accept our little gains and our diminutive victories in a piecemeal manner, while tempering our tendency to demand total, instantaneous, and absolute victory. Sadly, the world rarely provides such cataclysmic triumphs, and the sooner we come to terms with this historical and human fact the more likely we are to translate our little, limited and relative victories into big ones.

We would do well to start by appreciating the tactics of others in similar situations as ours. The black South Africans, for example, offer a good starting point for our case studies of triumph through patient and gradualist diplomacy. Nelson Mandela and the African National Congress (ANC) are on the verge of forming a coalition, power-sharing, transitional government that will see authority gradually transferred to them during this decade. Their inevitable triumph against the massive military, political and economic superiority of the white apartheid regime and its western supporters is testament to patient and conciliatory diplomacy that made a series of small gains based on a succession of compromises — until, in 1992, the ANC's considerable global moral and political support finally translated into an overwhelming torrent that forced the apartheid regime to capitulate and to start transferring power to the black majority.

This is only the most dramatic example. There are many others, including the actions of Israel itself in the first half of this century, when Zionist groups progressively accumulated political credibility by taking their gains one at a time, and building them up into an irresistable force for statehood. The United States itself - our lone superpower today — often accepted imperfect compromises with the Soviet Union over arms reduction treaties, and emerged

In other words, there is no shame in accepting half a loaf when half a loaf is the only thing likely to be offered. To the contrary, to make rational, conscious and deliberate compromises in the short term in the service of achieving our goals and rights in the long term is probably a sign of the sort of political maturity and national self-confidence that we have sadly lacked throughout most of this century. Have we learned nothing from the last two hundred years of diplomatic dealing with the western powers and their Israeli/Zionist adjuncts?

It is high time that Arab diplomacy sheds its suicidal albatross of emotionalism, weakness, hesitation, fear, and shame, and instead starts to deal with Israel and the rest of the world in a more methodical, self-confident, and intelligent manner. Of course, the suffering of the expelled Palestinians is an outrage and a crime that we must fight with all our power; and of course the a crime that we must right with all our power, alone not address compromise accepted by the Security Council does not address the core issue of the illegality of the expulsions. But, in our broader historical and political picture, the mass expulsions are merely a symptom and a consequence of our weakness and our tendency to emotionalism and maximalist foot-stomping.

The imperative now is to halt and then reverse the diplomatic trends that have brought us to this point of weakness and apparent helplessness in the face of Israeli intransigence and oppression. The politics of 799 are fascinating, and important, and I would suggest that they are more about emerging Arab strength than about past Arab weakness. They suggest another example of the historic transformation taking place in this region, by which the unchecked predatory excesses of Zionism/Israel are transformation to be exhibited to the normal and diplomatic rules of the starting to be subjected to the moral and diplomatic rules of the global community. This is a trend that we should appreciate and continue to foster. It is by nature a slow and often frustrating process, but it is a process that separates the victors from the vanquished, and children from adults.

The question I ask is: "Despite our overall dissatisfaction, are there elements in the politics of 799 that we can point to as relative gains? Are these elements capable of being built upon through Arab diplomacy to achieve more and greater gains in the future? Can the political dynamics of 799 be expanded in a cumulative manner to lead to the sort of momentum for Palestine in the mid-1990s that was achieved for black South Africans in

It seems to me that a primary responsibility of Arab leadership today is to draw a sharp line between the people's tendency to mass emotionalism and self-flagellation, on the one hand, and, on the other hand, their obligation to draw on their rich national identity and composure in the service of their national rights and aspirations. Most Arab leaderships appear to be abdicating their leadership responsibilities and submitting to the sentimentalism of the street; instead, they should be courageously leading their people into a battle that we can win: the battle to force Israel to comply fully with all U.N. Security Council resolutions. The politics of 799 includes signs of our capacity to win that battle; but we can only use those signs if we learn from our failed history of repeatedly demanding all-or-nothing, as well as from the lessons of others who won because they were more mature, patients and retired in their states as a security of the contractions. rational in their strategic approach to achieving their national

© RAMI G. KHOURI 1993

Are the sands about to shift under Saudi Arabia?

By John Rossant

RIYADH - If you want to see the Saudi consumer economy going full tilt, check out Riyadh's Olayya neighbourhood some evening. With its gleaming, marble-clad shopping centres and boutiques loaded with gold most generous cradle-to-grave watches, caviar, and couture fashion, the area looks like a iazzed-up version of Beverly Hills' Rodeo Drive.

But just a mile or two away is another Saudi Arabia. In the noisy Batha market - a vast Middle Eastern-style suq — there are no westerners, and the Saudis are poorer than those in Olayya. Wedged between a shoe store and an electronics shop is an audiocassette stall. But instead of music, the hundreds of tapes offer religious fare. Many are hysterical attacks on the U.S. and Israel — and some even daringly take aim at the Saudi royal fami-

The jarring scenes - one rich and westernised, the other anti-American and extremist — tell a lot about the schizophrenic reality of Saudi Arabia. Less than two years after Desert Storm, the Saudi economy is booming as never before, spelling handy profits for U.S. and European comanies that are hurting elsewhere. But religious fundamentalism and political uncertainty are also on the upswing. And with them come questions about the longterm stability of the world's No.1 oil exporter and a key U.S. ally.

Reat Hike

In the near term, things look great. The Saudi economy, charged by record oil production and postwar optimism, is growing at close to a 6 per cent annual clip. The big Saudi cities - including Riyadh, Jeddah, and Dhahran - resemble vast construction sites. Office rents have risen by as much as 25 per cent over the past year, while property values have soared by over 200 DCT Cent, in some cases.

"This is probably the only place in the world where real estate is actually going up in value," says David Rehfuss, chief economist at Riyadh Bank Ltd.

Unlike past Saudi booms, this one is being fueled by a newly confident private sector. Although tens of billions of dollars fled in the days following Saddam Hussein's invasion of Kuwait, more has since flowed back, and Saudis are pumping money into local projects. "You are seeing money coming out of the mattresses, says Abdallah T. Dabbagh, secretary general of the Saudi Arabian Chambers of Commerce and Industry. By Mr. Dabbagh's estimation, some $30 billion in private savings-account deposits within Saudi Arabia is available for investment.

rying trends..

The Saudi government is increasingly unable to rein in its spending. Bankrolling both Desert Storm and one of the world's welfare schemes, government debt has ballooned, from nothing in 1988 to more than $50 billion today - over half the kingdom's gross domestic product. Central bank reserves, once more than $100 billion, are at a rock-bottom $4 billion. "There is just no one willing to put on the brakes," says a Riyadh economic adviser. "The king certainly isn't."

"The Saudi government is increasingly unable to rein in its spending. Bankrolling both Desert Storm and one of the world's most generous cradleto-grave welfare schemes, government debt has ballooned, from nothing in 1988 to more than $50 billion today --- over half the kingdom's gross domestic product. Central bank reserves, once more than $100 billion, are at a rock-bottom $4

Such profligacy, some fear, is creating an increasingly fragile speculative bubble. If oil prices take a tumble, as they did in the mid-1980s, Riyadh would have no financial cushion, and the effects could be traumatic, "Remember, during the last downturn here in the 1980s, the Islamic movement simply didn't exist," says a western diplomat in Riyadh. "You did not have organisations ready to take advantage of trouble. Now, you do,'

Few American companies, though, are concerned about such matters. For hundreds, Saudi Arabia is a dream market. Last year, it sucked up more than $8 billion in U.S. non-military goods, making the kingdom a major U.S. export market. From air conditioners and Jeeps to Levi's, more U.S. goods are now entering Saudi Arabia than Chi-

American market share has soared, from 15 per cent to today's record 21 per cent - causing many European and Japanese uppliers to grumble.

Defence and aerospace contractors also are cashing in. The huge postware sale of 72 F15 jets, worth more than $5 billion, means McDonnell Douglas Corp. can keep open its St. Louis production plants throughout the de-cade. Boeing Co. is in the running for nearly $3 billion worth of airplanes for Saudia, the national airline. Hughes Aircraft Co., the General Motors Corp. aerospace unit, has well over $1 billion in contracts, including a $258 million deal to build telecommunications satellites for Saudi-financed Arabsat. Says John Crigler, chief executive of Hughes Saudi Arabia. "I can safely say that Saudi Arabia is now our single most important international market."

Piety Posses Saudia is a gold mine for GM, Ford, and Chrysler, as well. Saudi cities are flooded with Chevrolet Caprices, Cadillac Sevilles, and other high-end models. GM's brawny Suburban is a runaway success. The gulf area 'accounts for 95 per cent of all Suburban exports," says Gary Rowley, vice-president of GM Overseas Distribution Co. "And Saudi Arabia has the highest market penetration outside Texas." GM is even toying with setting up a Saudi vehicle-assembly plant.

The boom extends to financial services. Citibank has one of its best profit centres in Saudi Arabia. Its Saudi American Bank, or SAMBA as the affiliate is called. turned in a cool $300 million net profit last year. In a land where women are forbidden to drive and virtually none holds a joh, the bank has begun to hire women to sell investment advice to other women at home.

In part, the U.S. success derives from the low dollar and a postware sales drive by Corporate America. And in part, it represents political debt-paying, especially the roughly $25 billion in arms purchases since the Gulf war. But even "for the Saudi man in the street, there is a deep debt of gratitude to the U.S. and the West for coming to our aid" during the conflict with Iraq, says leading businessman Mohammad

But that very embrace of the U.S. is creating problems in what is, after all, the Holy Land of Islam. Since the war, there has been a strong upsurge of fun-damentalist activity, in part a reflection of what is happening elsewhere in the Middle East. Teams of religious police, the Week, feared mutawi, patrol shopp centres and supermarkets in search of attire judged improper. And lately, say many Saudis, the religious posses have for the first time begun breaking into private homes in search of liquor and pomography. "I don't feel safe in my own house anymore," says one leading Jeddah merchant. The skewed political economy plays into the fundamentalists' hands. Population growth, at around 3.5 per cent, is among the highest in the world. Already, Saudi baby boomers — conceived in the heady wake of quadrupling oil prices in 1974 — are hitting the job market in droves. Most are dismally unprepared for productive work, while privatesector companies prefer to hire Egyptians, Pakistanis, or Bangladeshis at around one-third of a typical Saudi salary. In private companies, according to one study, only 2 per cent of the work force is Saudi. "If you're young here," says one longtime Riyadh resident, "you turn either to drugs or to religion."

While the government con-dones — and in some cases encourages — religious activities, it objects when they involve politics. And that is happening more and more. In November, leading Saudi religious scholars issued a manifesto criticising the Saudi defense establishment and calling for a more "Islamic" — meaning less pro-American — foreign policy. King Fahd lashed back with a warning to keep politics out of the mosques. Although Riyadh is rife with rumours that Islamic fundamentalists have been thrown into jail, "the government does not seem to be able to control these people," says a western diplomat in Rivadh

Local analysts worry that King Fahd isn't up to handling a crisis. Once regarded as a relatively active, even liberal prince, the 74-year-old king is by all accounts indecisive, in poor health, and prone to sleeping most of the day at one of his many palatial complexes. Although the government apparatus has competent institutions — from the central bank to Saudi Arabian Oil Co., the stateowned colossus - decisionmaking often becomes paralysed at the king's level.

Still, as long as Saudi oil flows at relatively stable prices, the betting is that Riyadh will be able to keep a lid on an increasingly tense and uneasy society. But if something happens to break the bubble — such as a sharp drop in the oil market if the U.N. embargo against Iraq is lifted — the odds would shift -- Business

LETTERS

Elusive peace

To the Editor:

International legitimacy! Once again we are watching a fascinating vanishing act. And we remember that some people are more equal than others. Yet, we are told that the peace process must-go Why? To keep the Arabs busy?

One begins to wonder what kind of peace can come out of that process. At best, one based on international legitimacy! But what is this peace worth as one party to the agreement is above international legitimacy while the other party is permanently beaten to the total and unconditional implementation of it? Even people with a lot of good will might feel that waiting for Warren Christopher's peace-package is nothing else than waiting

> Elinor Kaiser-Mohammad, P.O. Box 540 383. Amman-Abu Nuseir.

The feminine mystique

Anyone who has read the article written by an educated memberof our society under the title of "The Woman" in Al Ra'i newspaper on Thursday, Feb. 4 would have to agree that despite the tremendous strides towards equality with men which women have made in our lifetime, women are still being increasingly viewed and treated as objects, creatures created for specific and narrow purposes, such as men's pleasure or perfect mommying. Women are once again being defined in terms of husband, family and home. Even more dehumanising, the writer of the article, Mr. Freij, depicted women as unfit, physically and psychologically, to be anything other than wives and mothers.

One cannot help but notice the writer's resentment of the fight for women's equality and his insistence to view women as second class citizens. His anxiety is fuelled by fear and resentment, so much so that he accuses women who "over-step" their "natural function" in society of robbing men of their jobs, thus increasing the rate of unemployment.

May I ask our respected writer, if that were the case, wouldn't it prove that women can and do excel in what he considers "men's obs". It is important to note the contradiction in what is being proposed to us: women are unfit to hold "men's positions", yet they are robbing men of their jobs! Maybe this resentment and retrosexist "slap" is a sign that women are getting closer to breaking down sexist attitudes.

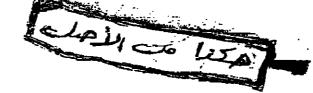

Behind this contradition lies an unconscious feeling of fear; fear of the threat of a major social transformation. Maybe the solution to Mr. Freij's anxiety and distress would be to ban girls and women from schools and universities, so that they will truly be unfit and unable to compete with the opposite sex in a "man's world". Hence, Mr. Freij would be guaranteed unopposed sovereignty in a patriarchal and sexist social system. After all, prevention is better than cure. And what could be more ideal than a "civilised" society where one sex provides just the bread and the other just the offspring. Moreover, that way we would be saving the state enormous amounts of money by cutting the budget spent on educational institutions for half the population.

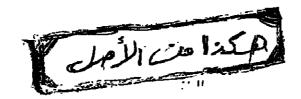

Having said all that. I would like to remind our respected writer that we are approaching the 21st century, with a new world order, and this is his chance to provide suggestions which would be possible solutions to the problem which, according to him, is causing social unrest; so, go ahead, Mr. Freij, grab the chance before it is too late.

It seems to me that in a society facing economic hardships, such as ours, women's struggle to be bread-winners as well as breast-feeders should be appreciated and respected rather than condemned. Condemnation only proves unawareness of the importance of improving a couple's life and bettering ourselves.

> Natasha Bukhari, P.O. Box 364,

The Jordan Times welcomes letters and contributions from its readers on any subject they wish to tackle. Letters intended for publication, however, should contain the writer's full name and publication, nowever, should contain the writer's run name and preferably address as well. Names can be withheld only upon-request and under special circumstances. Letters are subject to editing. The newspaper is not responsible for the return of unused

enate votes to curb clause in law

(Continued from page 1)

ho work in journalism" as well iournalists abide by the ethics the profession and do not work r foreign organisations outside e framework of regulations werning the work of corresponents for foreign newspapers. he amendment was made in tht of the Senate's earlier decion to abolish the definition of somalist from the draft law. The Senate also amended arti-te 15 to make owners of publicaons responsible for what is blished in them. As approved y the Lower House, the article at the responsibility on writers nd chief editors. The Senate's amendment of rticle 14 added a condition that hief editors of political parties' ublications be residents in the

The Senate, which will resume discussion of the draft law bursday, approved a draft law on a general amnesty issued by His Majesty King Hussein in November and a draft law on the tion as endorsed by the House. It referred to the Financial Committee a draft law on technical and economic cooperation with China and to its Judiciary Committee a draft law on building codes in the non in December.

no further council action to en

The Lower House Sunday condemned the statement of the Security Council president.

(Continued from page 1)

hat the Security Council had not et ruled on the Israeli comprom-

Mr. Abu Sharif predicted that he next round of peace talks will egin after the Holy Month of Camadan ends around March 22. U.S. Secretary of State Warren Instropher begins a Middle East our Wednesday to try to revive he peace talks, hoping the next ound can take place in April. He isits Israel, Jordan, Syria, Egypt ınd Saudi Arabia. Israeli Foreign Minister Shi-non Peres said Sunday that Israel vas prepared to make compromses, including ones involving erritory, and wants to get on vith peace talks with the Arabs.

"Morally we do not want to lominate other people and politially we do not want to create a Jugoslav-like tragedy," Mr. Peres said in remarks to a leading J.S. Jewish group in Washing-

"We are ready for a mutual ompromise, including a territo-ial one," the Israeli foreign ninister told the National Jewish Community Relations advisory ouncil's annual meeting.

Mr. Peres in his speech to the J.S. Jewish group did not ddress the expulsion crisis firectly, but said Israel was eager o resume peace negotiations vith the Arabs.

"We want to attain peace with ill our neighbours — the Palestinian people, the Jordanians, the lyrians and the Lebanese. And ve want to build new structures Telecommunications Corpora-

The Senate entrusted its Foreign Affairs Committee and its permanent office with issuing a communique on the statement of the president of the Security Council on about 400 Palestinians expelled by Israel to South Leba-

The council's president said this week that the council believed Israel's decision to allow back 100 expelled Palestinians to the occupied territories was a step on the right direction, indicating force Resolution 799, which demanded the immediate return of all the expellees to their home-

Crisis should not derail talks'

based on regional security" and development of the region's economy, he said.

Meanwhile, Mr. Peres said that Israel was "extremely comfortable" with the incoming Clinton administration in Washington. "We sense an air of friendship,"

Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Sunday he was confident the Palestinians would rejoin the peace talks.

Mr. Rabin, asked by reporters whether he expected the Palestinians to keep up the boycott, replied: "I believe that the parties that are interested in peace will come to the peace negotiations, and I believe that the Palestinians will do the same.

In an apparent gesture to sway the Palestinians, Mr. Rabin said if violence in the occupied territories declined he would consider releasing Palestinian prisoners detained during the five-year in-

"Evern without reaching an agreement, we will then consider a drastic reduction in... the number of detainees and prisoners," Mr. Rabin said.

Ziad Abu Zayyad, adviser to plored Israeli leaders to improve the atmosphere, telling Israeli army radio: "Do something positive in order to ensure the resumption of the negotiations."

He accused Israel of raising obstacles, citing its blowing up of Palestinians' houses, leaving families homeless, in a campaign to root out suspected activists in the Gaza Strip.

U.N. force to deploy in all Somalia

:: (Continued from page 1)

ame enforcement mandate as JNITAF (the U.N.-mandated orce under U.S. command.)" The U.S.-led force has made i o attempt to extend its mission nto northern Somalia, which was argely spared from the famine nat killed 300,000 Somalis over ne past two years.

Northern Somalia broke away om the south after rebels ousted omati dictator Mohammad Siad iarre in 1991, declaring itself idependent Somaliland. No ountry recognises it.
Mr. Mawlawi said UNOSOM's

nief goal would be the disarmaent of all factions in Somalia. hich was shattered by the civil war and anarchy that followed Mr. Siad Barre's overthrow. "The key to the solution of (Somalia's) problems and the success of the mission of the United Nations... will be disarmament,

A joint Belgian-U.S. force raided a camp in southern Somalia and captured nine people of a group suspected of attacking a village the day before, the U.S. military said Monday.

Fighting between rival factions in the area near Kismayu, about 400 kilometres south of Mogadishu, scuttled preliminary peace talks last month following a ceasefire agreed to by Somalia's war-

3anned Islamist group claims attack

(Continued from page 1)

ırliamentary elections a year to. The voting was cancelled nd the movement banned in an my maneouver that brought the mmittee to power. The front formally associated elf with the armed groups in a mmunique released Jan. 12 and med by its deputy leader Ali lhadi, who is serving a 12-year ison term. Two lawyers were sently arrested as part of an restigation into how the commique was sneaked from the ya military prison.

Authorities say at least 600 ple have been killed in vioce over the past year, nearly of them policemen.

he Armed Islamic Moveit, an umbrella group thought over various armed groups. med responsibility for a series omb attacks in a first comque issued Saturday, reand by the Associated Press in

The only language this junta understands is the language of the sword," said the communique from the group, promising continued attacks.

The list of attacks did not include the one aimed at Gen. Nezzar or an airport bombing which killed nine people last Au-

Authorities have linked the airport bombing to the front. But Mr. Kebir, who fled to exile in Europe, claims a confession by one suspect who served as an aide to FIS leaders was extracted through torture.

In other recent violence, four policemen were killed in the eastern suburb of Al Harrache over the weekend, and the driver of a small bus carrying the children of police was killed in an attack in Reghaia, also east of the capital.

On Saturday, police killed three armed Islamic extremists in Blida, south of Algiers, and on Sunday, police arrested 11 Islamic extremists in the eastern city of Constantine, charging them with terrorism.

iles say Christopher tour doomed Continued from page 1)

er hose long it takes," said

Rantisi

. Rantisi said Mr. Christr would not be able to conthe Palestinians to change position on the peace talks. e have great confidence in cretary-general of the Arab que, (Esmat Abdul Meguid)," Dr. Rantisi told reporters carlier Monday as snow fell on the tent camp on a windswept

"We urge him to play a positive and effective role against the iatest steps of the Security Council and ask him to base his moves on our firm stand in line with international legitimacy and Re-

Freezing Armenians scavenge desperately for firewood

By David Ljunggren Reuter

YEREVAN, Armenia — As night falls in the Armenian capital Yerevan, figures emerge from the gloom, scurrying through the silent snowy streets, saws in hand and laden with wood.

The only sounds to be heard every hour of day and night are sawing and the rasp of branches being pulled across icy streets. Piles of sawdust in the snow bear witness to the latest hunt for wood.

Five years after a dispute over the disputed territory of Nagomo-Karabakh erupted with neighbouring Azerbaijan, this small former Soviet republic. once a land of plenty, is slowly returning to the stone age.

Freezing Armenians have cut down more than a million trees for firewood. The ecology minister calls it an environmental catastrophe and says the damage could be irreparable.

The head of the Armenian ecologists, who also decries the damage, says at least one of his toes will have to be amputated because he has spent too much time in unheated buildings.

"I took 20 years to cultivate my own little orchard but had to cut down all the trees last month for firewood — it's li̇̀ke ķilling your own children," says Engineer Vazgen Kunasyan.

The Karabakh conflict and other ethnic strife in the volatile Transcaucasus has slashed supolies to Armenia.

The temperature in apartments, which have not been heated for two years, hovers just above zero. Light is turned on three hours a day at most while gas supplies have been off for Industry is at a total standstill virtually the only people doing a thriving business are street sellers peddling basic foods and goods at astronomical prices and black marketeers desperate to ditch their roubles for dollars.

The city's subway system. which runs for a few hours a day. is stuffed with passengers, many clutching bundles of branches, broken crates and smashed-up

The wood is stuffed into the voracious pechka, or stove, which dominates the lives of all Arme. nians. Family members sit huddled round the square freestanding stove for warmth and tend it as though their lives depend on it.

As engineer Albert Panossyan opens the door to his apartment smoke billows out from a faulty pechka which his son-in-law is doing his best to mend.

Albert's wife, two children and four grandchildren spend most of their time near the stove or in the dining room next door, gradually working through their food sup

"We're almost out of food and wood. We just won't be cating next month," says Albert, pointing to an imposing mahogany wardrobe in the corner. "We'll break that up next."

Robberies are spiralling out of control because the lack of power has knocked out all burglar alarms. Packs of starving wild dogs have savaged at least one person to death. Diplomats tell of seeing corpses laid out in central squares by relatives who beg for contributions to cover funeral costs.

'We used to send presents to friends in Russia to ensure they didn't starve. Now look at us, said one old woman tramping through Yerevan's icy central indoor market, looking at prices of cheese, bread and fruit she could never hope to afford. Black humour abounds.

Yerevan phone call: "Hello, how are you doing?" 'Fine, thanks."

Sorry, must have the wrong number. Few people blame the authorities entirely for their woes. reasoning that conditions could not be improved by simply changing the administration, but patience is running out. Last week 100,000 people marched through central Yerevan to demand the resignation of President Levon Ter-Petrosyan, who promised in his new year's message that this would be the repub-

'That's because we'll all be dead next year," sniffs the wife of retired General Ashot Kazaryan, head of the Armenian Veterans', to know the truth.

The single heavy gold star of the hero of the Soviet Union_the defunct superpower's highest military award, glows dully on the breast of the general's jacket as he squats by the pechka, trying to persuade it to take light.

This reminds me of how we tried to keep warm during the last war," he growls.

We began the 20th century like this and we're ending it the same way." says Gen, Kazaryan. who with other members of his extended family living in his spacious central Yerevan apartment openly blame the government.

The cabinet, now headed by Acting Prime Minister Grant Bagratyan, is dismissed as a bunch of youthful incompetents. Bagratyan's about as much of an economist as I am an astronaut," snarls the general. "I curse Ter-Petrosyan morning, day, noon and night," adds his wife. In the dingy dining room of the Hotel Armenia, where guests wolf down their lukewarm food while keeping a wary eye on the dim flickering lights, the waiters have only two questions.

"Where are you from? Does your country accept refugees? I'm about to sell my flat and car and try to get to Sweden. I've heard they're fairly liberal there," announces one.

The Armenians' sense of pride is damaged, but not yet dead. As the smoke in his apartment gradually thins, Mr. Panossyan fills his glass with local brandy and prepares a toast.

"If you meet someone on your journeys who asks how things are i ere, tell them we're doing fine." he says. "We wouldn't want them

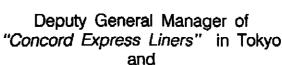

T.GARGOUR & FILS

WELCOMES

MR. HIJIKATA

MR. ELIE SABBAGHA

Representative of Mitsui O.S.K. Lines in Jeddah and wishes them

> A Pleasant Stay in Jordan And announces the Sailing Schedule for

CXL Vessels to Aqaba

PORT OF	مواتىء	" FAR SOUTH "	"IKAN TANGA "
LOADING	التحميل	CXL-01A17	03A18
SHIMIZU	شیمیزو		30/01-01/02/93
NAGOYA	ناجريا		_
YATSUSHIRO	باتسرشيرو
YOKOHAMA	يوكوهاما	-	27-29/01/93
KOBE	کربی	•	-
HAKATA	ماكاتا	-	22-25/01/93
MIZUSHIMA	ميزوشيما
BUSAN	پوسان	•
KEELUNG	كيلونغ
HONGKONG	هوئخ كونغ
SINGAPORE	سنفافوره	28/01/93	10/02/93
PORT OF DISCHARGING	موائنء التقريغ
PIRAEUS	بيرايس		-
BENGHAZI	بنفازى
LA GOULETTE	لإجوليت	 	-
SUEZ	السويس		26/02-01/03/93
PORT SUDAN	بورت سودان		-
HODEIDAH	المديدة	08-09/02/93
AQABA 🚳		12-13/02/93	02-03/03/93
SUEZ CANAL	قنأة السريس	14-15/02/93	04-05/03/93
SKIDA	سكيدا	-	09-10/03/93
TRIPOLI	طرابلس	•
BARI	بارى	18-21/02/93
ALGIER	الجزائر		13-14/03/93
CASABLANCA	الدار البيضاء		·
ANNABA	عنابة	-
ORAN	اور ان	 	15-16/03/93
REJAIA	بيجابا	, Walder	11-12/03/93

We are looking forward to shipping your goods to North African ports at reasonable freight rates

For reserving spaces on board above vessels, please contact General Agents:

T. GARGOUR & FILS

Wasfi Al Tai Street (Gardens) - Da'ssan Commercial Centre — 4th Fl. P.O.Box 419 Amman / Jordan

Tel.: 690626, Telex 21213, 23042. Fax: 690512, Cable TRUST

4 RENT & SALE

Many villas and apartments are available for rent and sale, furnished

- Also many plots of land

For further details

Abdoun Real Estate

Tel.: 810605/810609

Fax: 810520

are available for sale.

or unfurnished.

please call:

JORDAN MARKET PLACE

THE PROFESSIONALS ALWAYS CHOOSE THE RELIABLE

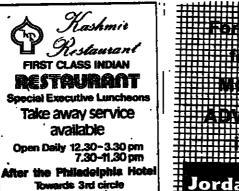

PACKING, AIR FREIGHT FORWARDING, DOOR-to DOOR SERVICES AND DELIVERIES, CUSTOMS CI FARANCE . TICKETS AND, RESERVATIONS.

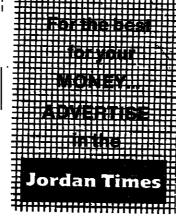

AMIN KAWAR&SONS TEL 604676 604696 P.O.BOX 7806

SWAN NATIONAL

Rent a Car

Safety And Style

CROWN INTL EST.

Packing, shipping

Forwarding, storage

worldwide Removals

Air, Sea and Land

TEL: 66 40 90

FAX: 69 08 52

POST: 92 64 87 Amman-Jordan

★ Kais Dryclean, 1 Hr. Service ☆ Upholstry, curtains & carpets

 ★ Shoes repair ★ Engraving ★ Keys Service cleaning 6 Branches af YOUR Service
Mecca Street, behind Pizza
Fay Hut, phone 821856, Fex

STUDIO HAIG Professional Quality in

Develop your colour film at our shop and get: · JUMBO photo site 30% larger · Free enlarge ment 20 x 30 cm Singestrii Opo, Urindiays Hank, Phone: 60006 Switch sel: 82386

CHINESE RESTAURANT Mecca Street, Yarmouk Engineers' Housing Estate, near Kilo Supermarket Mongolian Barbeque for Lunch Friday only Tel: 818214 Come and taste our

D.M.

6:30 - Midnight

Trio Krisola AL KHAIMA BAR 8:30 p.m - 1:30 a.m

MANDARIN RESTAURANT

Special Chinese Foods

Skilled Chinese Chefs

Open 11:30-3:30 & 6:00-11:30 duly

Wadi Sagra Road

near Philadelphia Hotel

Tel. 661922, Ammon

Cated Tasted

Always Loved

Take away is available

Kitchenette in every room...! DAROTEL

حاراوتيا Amman - Tel. 668193 --

Tel. 638968

The First Class Hotel in

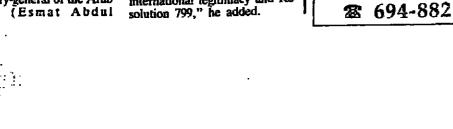

Amman that has a

P.O. Box 9403 - Fax 602434 Telex 23888 DAROTL JO ideal Residence For Expatriates and Businessmen

TEL 819564

Every great city in the world has its China Town and Amman now has its own. Where you can enjoy the most exquisite Chinese dishes the land dinner. Banquet and take away service All chefs from Peking, China

at the Amman Plaza Hotel

Tel. 674295 or 674111 - ext. 6338

JROPEAN SOCCER

g club names endure lean weekend

JUN (R) - Some big-name tarm is were frayed across have not the weekend as three soccer's best-known club ... intred days to forget. ... hester United, Barcelona an illustrious trio who · five European Cup to attens, could not summon up a was recover them amid a flurry penalties, sendings-off in title-chasers Mancheswed suffered the most terate, knocked out of the Cup 2-1 by unheralded ..! United Sunday. Procedure had three players in their own Camp Nou Saturday during a 1-1 draw . In Atletico Madrid, while re beaten 2-1 by 10-man indhoven in the Dutch League. the winner arriving six minut. from time.

In Haiy, leader AC Milan drew I day a malanta thanks to a penalty save by their goalkeeper Sebas-Tano Ressi.

It was the first time for two and a half years that Milan have league match without played any of their Dutch international trio Marco Van Basten, Ruud Gellit and Frank Riikaard, All three were injured.

Manchester United not onlytrack the lead in Sheffield but also had the chance to keep alive their hopes of a league and cup double by drawing level at 2-2 when they were awarded an 83rd minute

The usually reliable Steve

Famalicao defender Carlos Fonseca (right) fouls Benefica's Joao Pinto (left) during their Portuguese Premier League match. Benefica won 1-0 (AFP photo)

ing United fans to concentrate on the possibility of a first league title since 1967.

Tottenham were more successful in their fifth round match, beating Wimbledon 3-2 after storming into a three-goal lead in the first half.

In Spain, champions Barcelona are now three points off the pace in the league table but the orgy of sendings off against Atletico grabbed all the headlines.

Barcelona midfielder Jose Bakero was the first player to get Bluce missed from the spot, fore- his marching orders for a second yellow card, quickly followed by Guillermo Amor who was shown the red card seconds later for

The tally of dismissals reached four in the last three minutes when first Juan Vizcaino of Atletico and then Ronald Koeman of Barcelona were sent off for cynical tackles.

The referee had to be escorted from the pitch under police riot shields as missiles rained down from the terraces. Barcelona have now gone five games with-

Brazilian Jose Bebeto missed a penalty as Spanish League leaders Deportivo Coruma had to settle for a 1-1 draw in an exciting clash with Osasuna in Pampiona

Sunday. Osasuna goalkeeper Roberto Santamaria saved the weakly struck shot from the league's leading scorer in the 39th minute. The miss cost Deportivo a golden opportunity to pull further away in the championship. Their nearest challengers Real Madrid and Barcelona were both held to draw at home. There were also a few prisoners taken in the Dutch First Division clash between Ajax and PSV which saw one red card, six bookngs and a missed penalty. ...

PSV defender Jan Heintze was sent off early in the second half for a second bookable offence, but two goals by PSV midfielder Edward Linskens made up the difference despite a penalty miss by Brazilian striker Romario.

PSV lead the table on 32 points, with Ajax now three points behind in fourth place.

However, AC Milan remain the most consistent club side in Europe. Their 1-1 draw with Atalanta extended their unbeaten league run to 55 games and kept them nine points clear of nearest rivals Internazionale who drew 0-0 with Napoli.

Milan left it late, though, both the game's goals coming in the last four minutes. Jean-Pierre Papin scored for Milan, Maurizio Ganz replying for Atalanta.

SPORTS NEWS IN BRIEF

Polgar clinches match against Spassky

BUDAPEST (AP) - Hungarian teen age chess whiz Judit Polgar, the world's top-ranked woman, clinched victory over former world champion Doris Spassky by holding the Russian to a draw in the ninth game of their 10 game series. The draw gave the 16-year-old an unbeatable 5.5 points to Spassky's 3.5, with one game left Tuesday in which Ms. Polgar plays white.

English hero Moore faces toughest fight

LONDON (R) — Mention the year 1966 to any Englishman and he will wax lyrical about soccer. Wembley and Bobby Moore. The fair-haired Moore was the focus of an entire nation that July afternoon 27 years ago when England won the World Cup for the only time in their history. As he lifted the golden Jules Rimet trophy aloft, the England captain offered an image which has never faded in the minds of those who saw it. The shock news that the respected Moore is now fighting cancer has shaken a generation. The elegant former defender, who won 108 international caps, has been suffering from a bowel problem for some time. He underwent surgery in April 1991 in which a growth was removed but has now been told that cancer has spread to his liver.

Senna and Prost back in the F-1 championship

PARIS (R) - Three-times world champions Ayrton Senna and Alain Prost are back on the updated list of entries for the Formula One World Championship issued by the International Motor Sports Federation (FISA) Monday. The drivers were shock absentees when FISA released the list last month without world champion team Williams, who have signed Prost and Briton Damon Hill, and any driver from their rivals McLaren. In the new list of 28 cars entered for the 1993 season, Brazilian Senna is the third driver for McLaren with American Michael Andretti and Finn Mika Hakkinen.

Finland's Sievinen sets 100th national record

HELSINKI (R) - Finnish teenager Jani Sievinen, who established three short course world swimming records earlier this month, has now set his 100th national record. Sievinen, only 18, set two new records at the weekend at national short course competitions in Finland. Despite some problems at the finish, he shaved almost half a second off the previous 50 metres butterfly record with a time of 24.22 seconds in a 25-metre pool Sunday.

HOROSCOPE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY FEBRUARY 16, 1993 By Thomas S. Pierson, Astrologer, Carroll Righter Foundation

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Reexamination could be given now to a project to reveal weak lines. larity between the haves and haves-not may appear vast now.

ARIES: (March 21 to April 19) Consider well the collections and payments you have to make and organise them sensibly or you can have confusion in the handling of

TAURUS: (April 20 to May 20) You want to get yourself in the best presentable condition but you need to make sure you use the right methods and persons to aid you now. GEMINI: (May 21 to June 21) You have a plan of action to get out from under a situation that you do not like but don't be upset if it takes longer than you had anticipated.

MOON CHILDREN: (June 22 to July 21) Now you find you are too apt to depend upon friends and naintances to aid you to accomplish a purpose you have in mind. LEO: (July 22 to August 21) The outside world can be full of matters that you don't know just how to handle and you would be wise to approach anything of credit, career natters gingerly.

VIRGO: (August 22 to September 22) You have some new ideas which you think are just great but those with whom you come in contact now are not apt to be of the same opinion.

LIBRA: (September 23 to October 22) if you take up some matter of a business nature with one who is experienced in practical matters it will take more than you think to work it out. SCORPIO: (October 23 to November 21) You have associate who is just as determined to have his/her wn way as you are and this is not the day or evening to try to come to a meeting of minds.

SAGITTARIUS: (November 22 to December 21) The work and errands that you have today may seem forever to get done so don't expect swift action but maintain your own pace, do what you can. CAPRICORN: (December 22 to January 20) You think you can have a wonderful time today or tonight but it would cost far more than you anticipated and not be satisfactory either.

AQUARIUS: (January 21 to February 19) Conditions at your home can be at sixes and sevens but don't be frantic but schedule time and effort so that there is no lack of poise, calmness.

PISCES: (February 20 to March 20) You need to make sure you are very watchful when on the highway or at any place where an acciden could occur and avoid others reck-

Orlando win in triple overtime

ORLANDO (R) - Shquille O'Neal was shaky at the start but awesome at the finish Sunday as the Orlando Magic conjured a 102-100 triple overtime victory over the New York Knicks.

The rookie centre was in early foul trouble and out-played during regulation by his veteran Knicks counterpart, and predecessor as All-Star game starter, Patrick Ewing.

Dut as time ran out in the fourth quarter and then through three overtime periods. O'Neal dominated and lifted Orlando to victory that snapped New York's seven-game win streak. O'Neal, 20, finished with 21 points, 13 coming in the extra periods, but the "Shaq attack" were felt most on defence.

He blocked Ewing's fadeaway jumper as the buzzer sounded to regulation. At the end of the dar hony Mason into a travel in ine just before the buzzer. :: ' ... winning shot to end the :: # overtime.

New Jersey, Drazen Petrowed eight of his 34 points in with just under a minute with just under a minute wing, as the Nets rallied to Miami Heat 117-111.

ny Anderson added 22 and 10 assists for the Nets. ...nved to within four games first-place Knicks in the : oc Division. . wiland. Danny Manning 22 points and Ron Harper to lead the Los Angeles is to a 96-86 win over the Hazers. who lost their in a row at home. oley Roberts added 20 For the Clippers, who a split of their home-anderies with Portland and

I a three-game losing

Strickland scored 16 and Clyde Drexler had 14 Glazers, who have dropof their last six games and Trail Phoenix by six

Orlando's Shaquille O'Neal

games in the Pacific Division. In Los Angeles, Byron Scott scored 24 points to lead a mob of double-figure scorers for the Lakers in their Valentine's Day massacre of the Atlanta Hawks 135-

At Golden State, Jud Buechler scored 17 points and Tyrone Hill and Sarunas Marciulionis had 15 points apiece to lead a balanced attack that carried the Warriors to 114-94 victory over the Washington Bullets.

In Charlotte, Kendali Gill scored 27 points and grabbed 10 rebounds and Alonzo Mourning added 24 points and 13 rebounds as the hot Hornets defeated the Detroit Pistons 117-107.

The win was the third in a row and seventh in eighth games for the Hornets, who moved four

Seles, Courier, Becker win

CHICAGO (Agencies) — Moni- lenting corner shots. ca Seles beat Martina Navratilova 3-6, 6-3, 6-1 Sunday to win the Chicago Slims, her eighth straight match victory of the year without a loss and overcoming a hold the Czech native has on the windy

"I want to know what Monica had for breakfast because I didn't play that badly and got whooped in the last two sets," said Navrati-lova, who has won 12 of 14 finals in her 17 Chicago appearances. The first time I played here. Monica wasn't even born," the 36-year-old Czech native said.

With frequent shouts of "go, Martina," the crowd at the Illinois-Chicago pavillion was clearly behind Navratilova. Seles said she wasn't bothered her opponent's fan support. "In the first set, Martina just played well," said Seles. "In the second set, I said to myself,

'come on, I can play better."
Seles, 19, has a 10-6 edge against Navratilova, including five victories in the last six meetings between the two left handers. The Yugoslav native, famous for her grunting while hitting the ball, was making her first stop in Chicago since 1983 when she lost a first-round match as a 15 year

"I wanted to erase the bad memories of Chicago, losing my first match here four years ago,

Navratilova's short game and powerful backhand stymied her opponent early, but Navratilova quickly fell victim to Seles' unre-

"Once she gets going she is hard to stop," Navratilova said. "I lost a lot of deuce games, especially on my serve.' In Memphis Jim Courier battled through some mental exhaustion and another three-set match and held off 96th ranked Todd Martin 5-7, 7-6(7-4), 7-6(7-4) for the Krogwer St. Jude international championship.

"It's very satisfying to win four three set matches in a row," Courier said. "It's very hard to do particularly after coming from a place like Australia. It's tough to recuperate and get ready to go, so I was very pleased I could gear up and fight my way through."

Courier, ranked No. 1 on the IP Tour, had to deal with sleep deprivation the first five days after he returned from his victory in the Australian Open in the last week of January. That was followed by mental fatigue as he adjusted back to the United

He was taken to three sets in his three matches leading up to Sunday's final. Courier said being physically fit was the difference.

Guys can go out and play three set matches and play at 100 per cent no problem. Everybody can do it — once. We're the guys who can come out and do it two. three, four, five days in a row," he said.

Meanwhile, Boris Becker won the 23rd indoor title of his career where he pounded Spaniard Sergi Brugera to defeat in the final of the Milan tournament Sunday. Using his booming serve to great effect, the second-seeded Becker won 6-3, 6-3 in one hour 20 minutes.

He earned $112,500 for his troubles and 210 ATP points which could see him replace Stefan Edberg as the world's third-ranked player.

Brugera's clay-court game. based on touch and finesse, was no match for Becker's power, although he did manage to hold his own in the baseline rallies. Fittingly, Becker blasted three aces in the final game to close out the second set and the match. It was his second ATP tournament victory this year after his success in the Doha event in January. "I did not allow Wally Masur a break point in the semifinal nor Brugera one today and it makes me very happy to serve like that," said Becker, who dropped his serve just three times in the week. "It makes tennis very easy because you can realy attack the other guy's serve. That puts him under constant pressure.

Becker was asked if he had seen a spectator's sign which read: "The Davis Cup with superboris is like the Oktoberfest with-out beer," a reference to his recent decision to pull out of the German team for next month's tie in Russia.

"Yes, I did see that but I also heard that the Oktoberfest organisers were thinking of reducing the amount of beer they supplied, too," he said.

THE BETTER HALF, By Glasbergen

"Garden slugs are better than cats! No litter box, no yowling, no bad attitude..."

JUMBLE THAT SCRANBLED WORD GAME by Henri Amold four ordinary words. MOTEC OTHIS GLAITH WHERE THE SOPRANO MERMAID MADE QUITE A SPLASH. ENVORG Now arrange the circled letters to form the surprise answer, as suggested by the above carboon. Print answer here: IN THE OOO O

Yesterday's Jumbles: BSFOG CROWN FERVID UNSEAT Answer: What the impatient tawyer hoped for— A BRIEF CASE

GOREN BRIDGE

with omar share & Tannah Hirsch

NORTH PAJ PKQ74 PAJ65 + K 9 6 EAST WEST 4 8 2 10 9 4 + 76532 ♥3 ♦ Q 10 8 2 ♦ 8 8 2

SOUTH

The bidding: South West North East 2 4 4 4 A J 4 1 4 2 4 Pass 6 7 cover, but you can certainly gauge a bridge player's talent by the way certain hands are tackled. Here's what we mean.

Opening lead: King of • You should not judge a book by its

♦8 7 A J 10 6 5 2

North-South reach an excellent heart slam via the auction shown. Note East's preemptive raise to four spades on a hand that was not only trickless in high cards, but whose spade length detracted from part-ner's trick-taking ability. Not vul-nerable, a six-spade sacrifice would

THE FINESSER'S NIGHTMARE

If declarer wins the ace of spades draws trumps, cashes the king of diamonds and takes a diamond finesse, the defenders will prevail. When diamonds fail to break and the club finesse does not succeed. declarer has only 11 tricks. You can conclude declarer is at best an average player.

Now suppose that after drawing trumps declarer ruffs a spade, cashes the ace and king of diamonds and leads a diamond toward the jack. Chances of making the contract have improved considerably. Declarer not only gets home whenever diamonds are 3-3 or West holds the queen, but also when East holds a doubleton queen of diamonds. A good, solid player.

Now let's push the level of play a notch higher. If declarer draws trumps, cashes the king and ace of diamonds, then leads the jack of spades and discards a diamond from hand, you know an expert is at the helm. West is endplayed. A spade return yields a ruff-sluff, a club return is into declarer's tenace, and any diamond lead guarantees a third trick in the suit for a club discard providing declarer simply puts the jack on a low card. Try it.

a foul call. Peanuts games over, 500. The loss was the sixth in seven games for the Pis-

Mark Aguirre led Detroit with

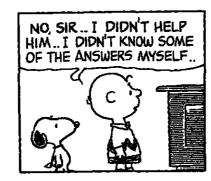

23 points and Terry Mills added

22 points and 11 rebounds. Detroit's Bill Laimbeer was ejected in the fourth quarter after receiving a double-technical for arguing

Andy Capp

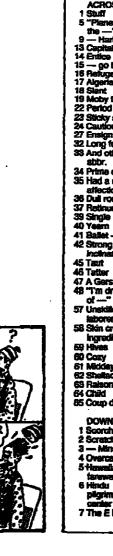

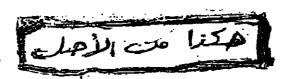

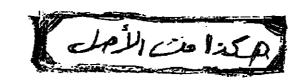

Mutt'n'Jeff

THE Daily Crossword by Florence C. Adler 15 — go bragh! 16 Refuce 16 Refuge 17 Algerian seapo 18 Stant 19 Moby Dick 22 Period of note 23 Sticky stuff 24 Cautious 27 Ensign 32 Long for 33 And others: s35 And others: sbbr. 34 Prime of life 35 Had a deep affection for 36 Dull routine 37 Retirue 39 Single 40 Yearn 41 Ballet — 42 Strong inclination 45 Timb Puzzle Solved: 47 A Gershwir 48 "I'm dream of ---" 57 Unskilled 11 Prepare tand for planting 12 Part of A.M. laborer 58 Skin creen 13 Record of a voyage 20 Distorted ingredient 59 Hives
60 Cozy
61 Midday
62 Sheltac
63 Raison o'—
64 Child 21 Came out on top 24 Witchilde old woman Women
25 Asylum
26 St.
27 Dwarf
28 English art gallery 29 Accumulate
30 — Calo 85 Coup d'-DOWN 1 Scorch 2 Screech out Minor Minor Morcarn
 Morca (become viole at Unit of force 32 Sound of a hoofbeat

Romanians demand bread, pay rises

BUCHAREST (R) — Thousands of Romanians marched through Bucharest Monday shouting for present 17,300 ($35). President Ion Iliescu's resignation in the first workers' street protest against the government which took office in November. ·Discontent over dwindling wages, soaring prices and growing unemployment has built up over the past month with a series of strikes and threatened stoppages, as well as quarrels beween unions and the government during wage negotiations.

Many of the 3,000 workers who massed in Revolution Square in icy weather also shouted slogans demanding bread and pay rises. We were cheated by this government." said union leader Au-rel Stan. "We want jobs, better pay and an end to the misery in

The protesters sent the government and Mr. Iliescu a list of demands - better welfare, new jobs and minimum monthly pay of 41,000 lei ($82) instead of the Protesters chanted "jobs, not unemployment", "resignation, resignation" and "down with

They marched through the capital with banners naming union branches from across Romania and daubed with slogans such as "where is the bread?" and "we want better wages, not lies."

The march was led by the "Solidarity 90" trade union federation, which groups 500,000 workers from many professions. The confederation of Free Trade Unions (CFTU) which boasts more than one million members, has threatened national strikes unless the government accepts its demands on a national labour contract including a tripling of basic pay to keep pace with inflation.

Financial	Jordan Times
Markets	in co-operation with
Markers	Cairo Amman Bank

150 Per 516.

ABO

8

٠.

医乳头

H

Eurocurrency Interest Rates		•	Date: 15/2/93
Currency	I MTH	3 MTHS	6 MTHS	12 MTHS
U.S. Dellar.	3.12	3.18	3.31	3.08
Sterling Pound	5.93	6,13	5.75	5.63
Deutsche Mark	$.50	8.37	7.87	7.18-
Swiss Franc	5.50	5.37	5.18-	5.06
French Franc	11.75	11.75	10.75	9.50
Japanese Yest	9.12	3.21	3.18	3_16
European Currency Unit	9.52	9.50	9.12	8.62

Precious Motals			Date: 15/2/93
Metal	USD/Oz	JD/Gm	Metal	USD/Oz	JD/Gm
Gold	328.55	6.40	Silver	3.69	.080
31 F		-

•	Dat	Date: 15/2/93
Carrenca	Bid	' Offer
U.S. Dollar	0.693	0.695
Sterling Pound	0.9773	0.9822
Deutsche Mark	C. Flot	0.4157
Swis Franc	0.4472	0.4494
French Franc	0.1231	0.1237
Japanese Yeu	0.5713	0.5742
Swedish Krona	9.0921	V.0926
Italian Lira	0.0148	0.0450
Belgian Franc	0.02021	0.02031

Date: 15/2/93
. Bid	Offer
1.8155	1.6330
0.03850	0.04088
. 0.1645	0.1853
2.2250	2.2900
0.1878	0.1889
0.1950	0.2150
1.7650	1.7800
0.1878	0.1889
0.31357	0.32595
1.3860	1.4015
	. Bid i . 8155 0 . 03850 0 . 1845 2 . 2250 0 . 1878 0 . 1950 1 . 7650 0 . 1878 0 . 31357

Index	15/0.93 Close	14/2/93 Close
All-Share	195.33	195.15
Banking Sector	137.40	137.12
Insurance Sector	214.58	214.80
Industry Sector .	275.10	275.23
Services Sector	259.62	258.28

LONDON EXCHANGE RATES

LONDON (R) - Following are the buying and selling rates for leading world currencies and gold against the dollar at midsession on the London Foreign Furbance and bullion markets Monday n Exchange and bullion markets Monday

1.2545/50	Canadian dollar
	Deutschemarks
	Dutch guilders
1.5438/48	Swiss francs
34.24/28	Belgian francs
5.6110/60	French francs
1549/1551	Italian lire
121.13/18	Japanese yen
7.4950/5050	Swedish crowns
7.0500/600	Norwegian crowns
6.3550/650	Danish crowns
	5.6110/60 1549/1551 121.13/18 7.4950/5050 7.0500/600

One ounce of gold $328.30/328.80

India offers Tajikistan more trade and credit

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister P.V. Narasimha Rao Monday offered $5 million of credit to Tajikstan to boost trade between India and the Central Asian republic.

Mr. Rao made the offer to Abdul Malik Abdul Lojonov, the prime minister of Tajikistan, who arrived Sunday night on a five day visit aimed at improving commerce with India. India's Commerce Secretary

A.V. Ganesan told businessmen from both countries that India will step up its export of consumer goods to Tajikistan, Press Trust of India (PTi) reported. Mr. Ganesan also said India will establish joint ventures between the two nations and help train Tajikistan businessmen, PTI

Mr. Abdul Lojonov thanked Mr. Rao and invited Indian industrialists to set up ventures using his small republic's large supply of cotton and minerals such as silver, zinc and lead. Mr. Abdul Lojonov said he would like India's help in setting

Manubhai Shah, president of the India CIS Chamber of Commerce and Industry, said it hopes to send businessmen to Tajikistan to make deals involving textiles, drugs, minerals and other items.

Mr. Rao and Mr. Abdul Loionov signed agreements designed to improve relations between India and Tajikistan, increase their trade, explore each others' cultures, and compete in

ARAB BARK
JORDAR RATIONAL BASE
BASK OF JORDANLIMOSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT BASK
THE HOUSING BASK
JORDAN KOMALT BASK
ARAB JORDAN HOVESTMENT BASK
JORDAN ISLANIC
BOSLINGS BANK
DOSLINGS BANK
DOSLINGS BANK
TORDAN ISLANIC
FUNDAMENT

SEAS INSURANCE

JORGAN LAVESTRENT & PINANCE BANK BELT ELECAL SAVINGLI BURSTNENT FOR HOUSING ANGUE BANK FOR HAVESTNENT FOR HOUSING JORGAN LASSERANCE

JOGGAR INSURANCE JARGERA SERS LINGUARCE JERUSALEM INCURANCE JERUSALEM INCURANCE JOGGAR PERNES JERUSALEM INSURANCE JARGOU HISTORACE & RELISTRANCE ARAB UNION INTERPATIONAL INSURANCE JORGARIAM ELECTRIC FORGE INBID DISTRICT ELETRICITY ARAB INTERPATIONAL HOTELS JORGAR EXTORIAS SIPPIEM LINES JORGAR EXTORIAS SIPPIEM LINES JORGAR EVELT & STATE INVESTIGAT JORGAR GUIF REM. ESTATE INVESTIGAT JARGOU ELETTE HACHERAY EQUIF REM. ESTATE INVESTIGAT JARGOU ELETTE HACHERAY EQUIF REM. ESTATE INVESTIGATE CHEMICAL JARGOU ELETTE HACHERAY EQUIF. RESTING & MAINTENAME JORGAR FRESS FOURDATION / ARAPI JORGAR FRESS FOURDATION / ARAPI JORGAR FRESS FOURDATION / ARAPI JORGAR FORDAT JORGAR JARGOU ELEMBY FACTORIES JORGAR FRESS FOURDATION / ARAPI JORGAR J

JURIAN PRINCIPATE SINES
JOHANN PRINCIPATE
JOHANN PRINCIPATE
JOHANN PRINCIPATE
JOHANN PRINCIPATE
READ PRINCIPATE NEUTRAL 6 AGRICA
READ PRINCIPATENT NEUTRACTURISC
READ PRINCIPATENT NEUTRACTURISC

JOHNAN CHANNEL PRODUCTION
JOHNAN DAIRY
THE JOHNAN FIRES HANDFACTURING
JOHNAN PAPER & CARDBOARD PACTORIES
NAME CHENICAL DETERMENTS INDUSTRIES
SPIRNING & MEAVING
RAPIA INDUSTRIES
JOHNAN GLASS INDUSTRIES
DAR AL DAMA DEVELOPMENT & INVESTMENT ARMS DUNCSTORET & INVESTMENT

MATIONAL INDUSTRIES
INTERNEDIATE PETRO-CHEMICAL INDUSTRIES
JORDAN BOCOMODI, INDUSTRIES
JORDAN INDUSTRIES
AL-ADIN INDUSTRIES
JORDAN INDUSTRIES
JORDAN HOUSTRIES / MATICA/JINCO
JORDAN MODO INDUSTRIES / JATICA
JORDAN MODO INDUSTRIES / JATICA
NATIONAL CARLE & WIRE MANUFACTURING
JORDAN MODI PROSTRIES / JATICA
JORDAN SULTHAD-CHEMICALS

JORDAN SULPHO-CHEMICALS ARAB CENTER FOR PEARM, & CHEMICALS JORDAN EMBALT CL. FOR AGRI, & FOOD PROD. UNIVERSAL MODERN INDUSTRIES

Cinema

Attacks on tourists cost Egypt $700m

CAIRO (R) - Tourism Minister the year before Found Sultan said Monday Mus"Between $60 lim militant attacks on foreign tourists had cost Egypt $700 mil-sures taken by the government to safeguard the country's main 1992-1993 (which ends in June) source of foreign currency, hote- will reach about $1 billion," he liers and tourist operators say added. business is slack.

attacks, in which one British woman was killed and two Bri-20 per cent drop in revenues compared with the same period

"Between $60 and $70 million is lost in receipts each month. The losses have reached about $700 million so far," Mr. Sultan Despite tough security mea- told Reuters. "If that pace continues, the losses in the fiscal year

He said when calculating re-Mr. Sultan said militant venues based on government ttacks. in which one British forecasts, the losses could be even more. Egypt had expected tons and five Germans were four million visitors for the fiscal wounded late last year, caused a year 1992-1993 and more than $4 billion in revenues.

Mr. Sultan said in the year

1991-1992 an estimated three million tourists visited Egypt, generating $3.5 billion.

Tourism activity is below average. There is a drop instead of growth. The drop has been between 15 and 20 per cent every month compared with the same period last year," Mr. Sultan

He said the tourism industry accounted for 30 per cent of Egypt's foreign currency receipts and 10 per cent of its gross domestic product (GDP). Many employees in the tourism business fear for their jobs. "If things don't improve many one Australian tour operator.

The pyramids and ancient pharaonic temples - Egypt's virtually empty. Luxury hotels, are deteriorating," he said. tourist villages and Red Sea beaches are quiet.

Egyptian hoteliers are nostalgic about the boom days. Boats and river cruisers lie idle along the without a job very soon," said cent compared with a full occupancy last year.

"Tourism has been badly affected. We have lost 50 per cent main tourist attractions - are of our tourism business...things

"The fear of tourists is exaggerated, but it is still an understandable fear. I don't blame them. They are targeting tourists."

The government has beosted palm-lined banks of the Nile wait- security measures by assigning ing for clients. Souvenir shops well-trained police troops to pro-have everything except shoppers. tect tourist spoil and hotels. Sec-Michael Shepherd, general ret police cars parcol the streets of manager of the Nile Hilton, said tourist villages.

Hong Kong stocks smash 6,000 barrier

Kong's key stock market index sub-soared through 6,000 points Mon-

The blue-chip Hang Seng index surged more than 200 points in 7 per cent, at 6,049.44. Brokers said the scramble began after local newspapers reported that Peking, which re-sumes sovereignty in 1997, was ready to drop its demand that governor Chris Patten must scrap his democratic reform proposals before any talks can begin.

Monday's close was the first time the index had risen over 6,000 since Nov. 17 last year as Peking stepped up a ferocious

11.111 10.690
8.100 8.100
8.100 8.100
5.866 5.780
10.100 10.000
6.856 6.850
6.850 6.850
2.600 2.600
1.990 3.930
4.650 4.650
3.400 3.730
1.800 3.800
0.780 0.780
1.950 1.350
1.050 1.070
1.550 1.070
1.550 1.070
1.550 1.070
1.550 1.070
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.090 1.090
1.

11.250 8.000 3.150 5.850 10.500 6.830 6.050 2.500 3.400 3.400 3.400 3.400 11.600 1.650 1.650 1.040 2.030 0.780 1.040 2.030 0.780 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 2.030 1.040 1.050 1.040 1.050 1.040 1.050 1.040 1.050 1.040 1.050

AMMAN FINANCIAL MARKET

HONG KONG (R) — Hong campaign to force Mr. Patten into

The reports, all in Chineseday, propelled by speculation language newspapers, met with a that China is ready to start discus- string of official "no comments" sing the colony's political future from both sides but no denials. after months of acrimonious With Hong Kong's overall economy still buoyant despite the row, buyers jumped back in.

"Investors had been waiting for afternoon trading before slipping a breakthrough to buy into a slightly to close up 191.29 points, market of sound fundamentals." said Eugene Law, head of research at DBS Securities. "The reports were just taken as the breakthrough, although they are vet to be confirmed.

Jordanians, Saudis team up on waste disposal

IRBID (Petra) — Teachers and specialists at Jordanian and Saudi Arabian universities are combining their efforts to work out programmes on safe disposal of dangerous waste, similar to programmes adopted by advanced nations, according to Ibrahim Alem, head of a visiting delega-tion from Saudi Arabia's King Fahd University of Petroleum and Minerals.

Dr. Alem said in a meeting in Irbid that King Fahd University and the Jordan University of Science and Technology (JUST) are jointly spearheading the en-deavour to benefit the Arab Dr. Alem met with JUST President Kamel Ajlouni and discussed cooperation in safeguarding dangerous and chemical waste. He said the visit to JUST came as part of ongoing consultations between the two universities. The visit also follows the Saudi delegation's tour of several centres in the United States and the United Kingdom which handle

28-year-old male, fluent in speaking, writing and reading

English and Arabic with 3 years experience in clerical positions in U.S.A. is seeking a clerical position.

Please call Samih from 9:00 a.m. until 1:00 p.m.

and from 6:00-9:00 p.m. at 797008

CONCORD

Kevin Costner and Whitney Houston BODYGUARD

> Shows: 12:30, 3:15, 6:00, 8:30, 10:30 Free Car Parking

Somalia's economy surfaces again from desert sands MOGADISHU (R) - One of a order, and vast numbers in that handful of new-looking cars area are destitute refugees. negotiates the ruined streets of Mogadishu, where imported cigarettes have now almost miraculously appeared at stalls

The economy of this Horn of

In the case of the cars, and some stores of consumer goods, it is literally rising from the desert sands, now that the U.S. troops are keeping the warlords in

"The new cars that you see in the streets these days had seen buried in the sand by their owners during the war, fearing that they would be looted;" said Abdi

Aden, a longtime resident. "Some people even damaged their cars deliberately by removing their windows and lights to prevent looting," he said. If you want Kenyan-made Embassy or Sportsman cigarettes, you can get them. If you prefer more exotic international brands such as Rothmans or Benson Hedges, they are also available.

Further down the bombed-out roads and streets of Mogadishu you can now buy rice, imported bottled drinking water and other "luxuries." Two hotels have reopened and a few new-looking cars sweep through the dusty avenues.

Many of Somalia's six million people are outside the areas to which a U.S.-led task force has these northeast African traders famed for selling camels and livestock is slowly relaunching a Africa country, destroyed by civil collapsed economy.

war and famine, is coming out of These people will sell you any-

But in the safest areas the indomitable business spirit of thing.... they are very adept at getting business back on its feet." said a French official who has been working here since December, when the multinational force was deployed in Somalia to end gun law. "When I first arrived in Mogadishu just two months ago, everything had collapsed — the water system, electricity, telephones and the government. 'You couldn't even speak of a subsistence economy then as most residents were afraid to move around the streets. But look now -- they are filled with people, busy buying or selling this or that," he said.

Even in times of peace Somalia's economy was rudimentary. dependent on livestock exports and foreign aid.

Guerrilia war between rebeis and army troops of dictator Mohammad Siad Barre in the 1980s was costly. Western donors, taking a tougher line on human rights in the post-cold war era, cut off aid and the economy

Siad Barre's ouster in 1991 plunged Somalia into new depths agony and despair as rebels competing for power looted and plundered anything they found. Ismat Kittani, U.N. specifor Somalia, this week. restored some semblance of Mohammad Sharif, a 22-yearold driver, told Reuters: "When you look at what has happened, it is clear that a bad government is better than no government at

"Look at what the fighting has done to my country." he added resignedly, surveying the bullet-scarred houses and buildings of what used to be Mogadishu.

The uneasy calm that has followed the arrival of the 37,000strong multinational force, most of it American, has spurred the Somalis to open numerous little food shops in Mogadishu and other main cities. "We thank the Americans and all troops from other countries who came to our rescue. I am now able to run my business again," said Mohammad Farah, who owns a car-parts shop. Abdi Aden, a Mogadishu resident of many years, said more enterprising Somalis were buying television sets from neighbouring Djibouti to sell to people who wanted to watch video films at

The United Nations, which mandated the deployment of the 23-nation Somalia force, says it will help with the country's reconstruction but Somalis themselves must take the lead. "We are ready to help with the reconstruction of social and economic infrastructure which was totally destroyed... but the Somalis themselves must take responsibility to run their lives." Ismat Kittani, U.N. special envoy

Norway raises oil, gas reserve estimate by 12%

OSLO (R) — Norway, Europe's tinental shelf, up from about nine top oil producer, has raised its billion estimated previously.

"The expected amount for total billion estimated previously."

"The expected amount for total billion estimated previously." estimate of oil and gas reserves by 12 per cent and said at current rates it could keep pumping oil for the next 45 years. The state-run Norwegian Petroleum Directorate said the country had offshore resources equivalent to 10 billion tonnes of oil under the Norwegian con-fantastic wealth for a nation of statement. just 4.3 million people. Norway's economy has become since production began in 1971. coverable total.

Tel.: 677420

Ten billion tonnes is about 75 sources has risen by about 12 per billion barrels -- worth $1.4 tril- cent compared to previous estilion at current oil prices and mates," the directorate said in a

Norway has so far extracted about 1.13 billion tonnes of oil, or increasingly dependent on oil 11 per cent of the expected re-

Duty Free Car For Sale SEEKING A JOB

Mitsubishi Galant 1988 with full options. Very low mileage. Car can be inspected at Australian Embassy, tel. 673246 - Sale by tender closing Thursday Feb. 18.

Ground Floor Of A Villa For Rent Location is in Khalda

Separate entrance, garden and utilities. 230 sq.m. Consists of 3 bedrooms, 3 bathrooms, big kitchen and store, living and guest rooms. Two sitting areas looking into the garden. Furnished/unfurnished. Call 840011

BRITISH LADIES OF AMMAN

Our monthly meeting will be held at the PLAZA HOTEL on Wed. 17th February at 4.00 p.m. all members and guests welcome.

FOR SALE

Mercedes Cars - Duty Unpaid Mercedes 200, model 89, system 90.

Automatic, ABS, centrelock, elec. sunroof, electric right mirror, rear headrests. Colour: Dark blue. Price JD 12,500 2. Mercedes 190E, 2.0,, model 1989, system 90. ABS, centre-lock, electric sunroof. Colour: Black. Price JD 10,500 Please call 823789 "for 2 days only"

SALESPERSON WANTED

A Jordanian firm of importers, specialising in drugs, medicines, and cosmetics is urgently seeking a dynamic salesman/woman to handle its cosmetics sales, promotion, and distribution activities. The candidate should:

Own his/her car.

Be fluent in Arabic and English.

Have prior sales experience.

Applicants should write, enclosing background education and experience to:

The General Manager P.O.Box 6425, Amman - Jordan or Fax No. 623077

Nabil Ai Maskini Theatre

Mabii Al Mashini Theatre Tuesday January 5th marks the opening of the new theatre season presenting:

Pandemonium (Ta'a wa Qaimeh) Daily at 8:30 p.m. Tickets office open all day presents

"Welcome New World Order — 93"

a political comedy review

Daily, except for Saturdays & Sundays at 8:30 p.m. Matinee on Thursdays at 4:30 p.m. Box office open daily

U.N. tries to get convoy to starving Bosnian Muslims

tiators tried Monday to persuade rebel Serbs to allow a convoy through their lines to take emergency aid to starving Muslims in eastern Bosnia.

The Muslim-led Bosnian government and leaders of the Serbs have agreed to a ceasefire to let the 10 trucks through.

But a spokeswoman for the U.N. High Commissioner for Re-fugees (UNHCR) in Belgrade said local Serb commanders were insisting that they had not received permission to let the con-

She said negotiators were attempting to get Serb agreement for the trucks to reach the Cerska area, where the UNHCR estimates as many as 25,000 Muslims are trapped.

They are among tens of thousands of Muslims cut off in eastern Bosnia since civil war broke out in the former Yugoslav republic last March.

The convoy set out from Bel-grade Sunday but had to spend the night inside the Serbian frontier after it was turned back at roadblocks manned by Bosnian

The Bosnian government has protested at the UNHCR's failure to reach the Muslims in the east by refusing to accept U.N. aid for the besieged capital, Sarajevo.

If the convoy gets through the UNHCR plans to send another to the area in a week.

Mortar, machinegun and smallarms fire erupted in the south of snow-covered Sarajevo at dawn but died down later.

The Muslim-controlled radio in the capital said occasional shells landed during the morning. The Belgrade-based news agency Tanjug said Bosnian govmultiple-rocket launchers and machineguns in an attack on Serb-held Ilidza, close to Sarajevo airport, in the early hours of the morning.

Sarajevo Radio reported fighting in other parts of Bosnia. including shelling and heavy sniper fire at Muslim-held Gradacac. 120 kilometres north of Sarajevo.

The snow around Sarajevo has hampered efforts to repair the city's war-damaged power lines by covering land-mines. It has also held up delivery of UNHCR relief supplies outside the capital. Tanjug quoted rebel Serb forces in the Krajina enclave in

Croatia as saying they had repel-led attacks by Croatian troops in a series of artillery and tank

Goran Hadzic, president of the self-proclaimed Serb republic in the Krajina area of Croatia, left Monday for talks in New York with international peace mediators Lord Owen and Cyrus Croatian leaders were also dueto go to New York. But Mr. Hadzic has made it clear the Serbs will not give up their demands for an independent state carved out of Croatia.

"We are going to New York to explain that we cannot live together with the Croats," her said Sunday. Radovan Karadzic, leader of the Bosnian Serbs, was quoted by Tanjug as saying in a television interview that plans for a referendum on union between the Bosnian and Croatian Serbs had been put off for the time being.

But Mr. Karadzic said that if U.N. peacekeepers moved out of Krajina, leaving it open for Croatian troops to move in, the proposals would be revived.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

PEKING (R) - A fire which tore through a Chinese department store and killed 79 people Sunday was blamed on lax workers doing electrical welding, another sign safety standards are falling victim to China's economic boom. The official Xinhua News Agency Monday briefly reported Sunday's disaster, one of the deadliest fires to strike China in recent years. The agency said the fire ripped through the three-storey Linxi Department Store in the northeastern city of Tangshan during peak shopping hours

Sunday afternoon, transforming the store into an inferno. A

Tangshan City Fire Department official contacted by telephone said a total of 79 people were killed by the blaze and another 51 were injured. The fire in the industrial city east of Peking broke out at about 1:1. unday, and quickly consumed the store in one of the city's largest shopping areas, he said.

Brazauskas elected Lithuanian president

VILNIUS (AP) I huanians voting in their first popular presidential election those former Communist Party leader

Algirdas Brazauskas by an overwhelming margin, election officials said Monday. With all the votes counted, election commission officials said Mr. Brazauskas had 60.1 per cent (1,210,517 votes) to 30.1 per cent (767,345 votes) for challenger Stasys

Lozoraitis. The remaining were invalid ballots. Election officials said 70.6 per cent of Lithuania's 2.6 million registered voters went to the polls in Sunday's election. Parliament made Mr. Brazaus-kas acting president last fall as former Communists returned to power in a voter backlash. The two candidates waged a gentlemanly campaign. On election eve, their aides even played a friendly game of basketball. (Mr. Brazauskas' side won 38-28.)

"We have passed a test for democracy. The election took place in a civilised way," Mr. Brazauskas said after the returns were in.

TOKYO (R) - U.N. Secretary General Boutros Ghali arrived in Japan Monday to secure Tokyo's backing for his plan to strengthen the world body and its global peacekeeping activities.

Dr. Ghali is to meet Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa and Emperor Akthito Tuesday. The secretary-general is also slated to deliver three policy speeches and officially open the new headquarters of the United Nations University in Tokyo. Like his January trip to Germany. Dr. Ghali's visit to Japan takes place amid signs that the United Nations will soon take steps to reflect an international power balance radically changed from the late 1940s when the U.N. was founded. In his talks with the secretary-general. Mr. Miyazawa was expected to advance

Japan's bid for a permanent seat on the U.N. Security Council.

TOKYO (R) — Japanese Foreign Minister Michio Watanabe, just home from a gruelling four-day trip to Washington, fell sick in parliament Monday and was taken to hospital, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said. Mr. Watanabe, 69, who is also deputy prime minister, was suffering from a cold and overwork, the spokesman said. Mr. Watanabe, considered Prime Minister Kiichi

Miyazawa's closest rival, underwent gall bladder surgery in 1992 and appeared to take a long time to convalesce. Although he has recently regained weight, he was reported still in poor health. The earthy, plain-talking politician had an exhausting schedule in Washington, jousting with President Bill Clinton and Secretary of State Warren Christopher on sharp bilateral trade tensions and policy towards China and Russia. Returning to Tokyo late

Sunday, he was back in parliament Monday morning to take part

Tabloid apologises to Queen Elizabeth

LONDON (AP) — The Sun newspaper made a front-page apology to Queen Elizabeth II, who is suing the tabloid for publishing her Christmas message two days early. In its early editions. Monday's Sun also said the newspaper would donate

£200,000 ($204,000) to the Save The Children charity, of which the Queen's daughter, Princess Anne, is patron. It was not immediately clear if that would satisfy the queen. A Buckingham

Palace spokesman said the Queen's lawyers had received a telephone call from the Sun and that "any proposals ...will be looked at carefully but in the meantime the matter remains with the solicitors." The decision to apologise came from the Sun's publisher Rupert Murdoch, Assistant Editor Chris Davis said

Sunday night. "It is Mr. Rupert Murdoch who feels we should make this handsome and gracious gesture. It has been discussed at the very highest level." On Tuesday the Sun had said it intended

Japan foreign minister taken ill

Ghali arrives in Japan

in a committee session.

to fight the lawsuit in court.

China department store fire kills 79

Krajina. Croat and Serb secessionist forces continued to trade artillery fire Sunday around Zudar, along Croatia's Adriatic coast

"If the United Nations should pull out its peacekeepers, then the situation would be radically different and we would go ahead with our plans for the union." he

In a separate devel opment. Serb police in Kosovo province have stepped up efforts to drive ethnic Albanians from the ancient Serb heartland of Pec. residents and foreign observers

An increase in police summons, beatings and nighttime raids appears linked to the success of radical Serb nationalists in recent elections, they say.

"We believe the terrible abuses are part of a policy to make life so unpleasant for Albanians as to force them to leave Kosovo," said British peer Lord Rea, who led five European parliamenta-rians and a Canadian deputy visiting Kosovo last week.

Ethnic Albanians make up about 85 per cent of the 1.9 million people in this poor southern Serbian province that borders Albania proper. But about 350,000 ethnic Albanians are said to have fled since Serbia revoked Kosovo's limited autonomy in 1989 and imposed direct rule from

Yeltsin abandons Kremlin struggle for holiday

MOSCOW (R) - Russian Presi- health. dent Boris Yeitsin, faced with a growing challenge to his power by conservative rivals, left Moscow unexpectedly Monday for what a spokesman called a 12-day holiday at a country villa.

Mr. Yeltsin, who has a record of notice last May. sappearing from the public eve Mr. Yeltsin had b at decisive moments, was relaxing at a dacha just outside Moscow. All meetings with foreign · had been officially remesses from his schedule. "Yeltsin's health is fine, though he is tired after a heavy schedule over the last two weeks," a spokesman said.

The president, who recently celebrated his 62nd birthday, had been due to meet parliamentary chairman Ruslan Khasbulatov in the Kremlin Tuesday for a second round of talks intended to resolve a growing constitutional crisis.

The spokesman said Mr. Yeltsin had planned his break for some time but made a final decision Friday morning, hours after his first meeting with Mr. Khas-hulatov ended in deadlock. "The (Tuesday) meeting between Khasbulatov and Yeltsin is the business of the two men. Yeltsin might contact Khasbulatov and meet him as agreed," the spokesman said.

"But the meeting may also be postponed," he added:

prompting speculation over his

Mr. Yeltsin has on several occasions withdrawn from the public gaze at crucial times.

He disappeared for several days during a crucial meeting of Russia's supreme legislature last spring. He also cancelled several days of appointments, including an important meeting with A presidential spokesman said Japan's foreign minister, at short > to meet French Foreign Minister Roland Dumas Tuesday. This seems an unlikely time to take a holiday," one foreign diplomat commented. "He can stay in tough with the Kremlin from out there, but experience shows there's no substitute for being on the spot.'

Mr. Yeltsin has met strong resistance from many quarters over the last week to his plans for a constitutional referendum. Even leaders of Russia's semiautonomous regions, or republics, who have backed him in the past, said the vote could stir

Commonwealth Television's news digest programme Itogi, reviewing the week's events, said Sunday Mr. Yeltsin now appeared deserted over the issue. The president had hoped the referendum would give him popular support to break the power of a central and regional legislatures that opposes his radical economic reforms.

If the poll is called off, as seems likely, he must seek another way of breaking their hold on government or accept a second humiliation in two months.

Angola reports gains in Cambodian. Huambo battle; 6,000 dead rebels in the decisive battle for the second city of Huambo but at least 6,000 civilians had died in more than a month of fighting. Diplomats said the govern-

army is on offensive against

Khmer

Rouge

said Monday.

PHNOM PEN (R) — Phnom

Penh troops are pressing home an offensive against Khmer Rouge guerrillas in strife-torn central

Cambodia in violation of a cease-fire, a U.N. peacekeeping official Continuing with the ceasefire violations that they have been responsible for over the past few weeks, CPAF (Phnom Penh army) forces are continuing to press forward in the province of consolidated areas won back from the NADK (the National Army of Democratic Kampuchea, or Khmer Rouge) and has applied further pressure on Sakream, the spokesman said. Sakream, about 50-60 kilometres north of Kompong

Thom town, is the headquarters of the Khmer Rouge's Regiment

616. The Khmer Rouge, ousted from power in 1979 after a brutal four-year rule, have refused to abide by a Paris peace agreement between all four Cambodian factions, the basis of the U.N.-

sponsored peace process.

Fighting and a wave of politically motivated violence directed primarily against the main opposition parties has thwarted one of UNTAC's main aims, to secure peaceful conditions for voting.

U.N. military headquarters have described fighting this year, mainly around Battambang province in the northwest, as the worst ceasefire violations since the peacekeepers arrived last

The U.N. spokesman said

Monday that Phnom Penh's

forces appeared to have captured

several small villages in Kompong

Thom and pushed to within two kilometres of guerrilla-held Kraya, another key insurgent

Despite continued unrest. more than 300.000 Cambodian

"The number of Cambodians who have returne in me as part of a joint can... Nations, UNHCR (U.N. High Commis-sioner for Refugees) programme today exceeded 300,000 people."

More than 99 per cent of the refugees had returned from seven camps along the Thai-Cambodian

The number included almost

2,000 Cambodians who formerly lived in refugee camps in refugees ha

in the pass to U.N. figures.

the spokesman said.

frontier, he said.

camps in ane from esewhere

according

ment's position was precarious and they believed the rebels still controlled large parts of the smashed city.

"The government will need to regain a lot of ground to prevent UNITA from taking control." said one Western diplomat.

Fighting was raging around the governor's palace and army installations, the government said. More than 6,000 civilians were killed in the five weeks of combat and those who remained were short of food and water, it said. Hundreds of bodies were littering the streets, military officials in Huambo said on state-run radio Kompong Thom," said a spokes-man for the U.N. Transitional There was no independent con-Authority in Cambodia (UN-TAC).

A 22,000-strong multinational
U.N. force is in Cambodia to help prevent fighting and prepare for elections in late May.

"Since last Friday, CPAF has firmation of the reports but fore-ign aid officials believe the death toll is in the thousands.

Angolan military sources said both sides had sent reinforcements to the central highland city, which has been pounded to rubble in many parts. Fighter planes took off from Luanda at the weekend towards Huambo. State-run media Monday repeated government claims that Zaireans and South Africans were helping UNITA. A South African company had rented three DC-3 planes to UNITA, it said. The battle for Huambo, former headquarters of UNITA (National Union for the Total Independence of Angola), is the most

Prime Minister Paul Keating intensified his attack on the Conservative opposition Monday.

predicting "industrial war" and soaring inflation and interest rates if they won the March 13

Polls showed the race closer than ever and political commentators judged opposition leader

John Hewson the narrow winner

Mr. Keating told a business conference that industrial anarchy would result from a plan by the Liberal-National Party coalition to abolish industry awards in favour of enterprise bargaining.

"In the factories and mines and construction projects of this country you will see industrial union movement will be smaller would."

of Sunday's television debate.

LUANDA (R) — The Angolan significant in the civil war which government said Monday it had regained ground from UNITA Savimbi rejected his defeat in elections in September and began to expell local authorities from 75 per cent of the country.

The war has resumed with unprecedented intensity, turning several cities into ghost towns and displacing hundreds of thousands of people.

International aid organisations say they are unable to reach the worst stricken areas. UNITA has rejected a U.N. proposal for a brief truce in Huambo so that food and medicine can be rushed to thousands of wounded civi-

The United Nations has failed to revive May 1991 peace accords which ended 16 years of war between UNITA and the MPLA (Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola) government. ruler of Angola since independence from Portugal in 1975.

Talks in Addis Ababa in late January failed to produce a ceasefire. UNITA cancelled a second round planned for Feb. 10 on the grounds that its delegation had not returned to Angola. UNITA refuses to set a new date.

Many diplomats believe Mr. Savimbi wants control of Huambo before negotiating. Then he will seek a power-sharing agreement, a notion rejected until now by the MPLA, which was legitimately elected.

Peace accord observers Portugal, Russia and the United States demand UNITA agree to a new date by Wednesday night. But diplomats admitted they had little

"It is no accident that the Industrial relations were tipped as a major issue before the election was announced but until now unemployment, child care and business investment have grab-

Hewson during Sunday night's debate gave the Labour government the opportunity to attack what it believes is one of the troops on the waterfront" to suggested a few years ago, Mr. Hewson said: "As an absolute Asked if he would still "put opposition's weak points.

However a question to Mr.

bed the headlines.

question of industrial relations will be crucial in the forthcoming

Thyssen art collection to stay in Spain

BARCELONA (R) — Swiss financier Baron Hans-Heinrich Thyssen-Bornemisza has said he is on the point of agreement with the government for his muhi million dollar art collection to stay in Spain for good. The collection of 800 works, including paintings by Tintoretto. Rubens. El Greco, Caravaggio, Goya, Van Gogh, Monet and Picasso, is on display in a specially restored 18th century palace in Madrid.
Baron Thyssen told reporters in Barcelona Friday he expected final agreement for the masterpieces to stay in Spain to be reached "in a month or two." He gave no details of the price Spain would pay to keep the collection, but officials involved in negotiations said the deal would be a mixture of sale and gift. with the government giving guarantees on maintenance and conservation.

Ex-wife to get more than $7 million of lottery winnings

MARIETTA. Ga. (AP) — A. woman who fought for half of her husband's lottery fortune in a divorce battle will receive more than $7 million after the judge ruled the man "financially irresponsible." Paul Cooney won a $21 million lottery jackpot in 1989, to be paid in 20 annual installments of $1,035,000. After Keating warns of industrial war if opposition win winning the money, he accumulated $2.6 million in debt from bad business deals. Donna Marie Cooney, 30, will get one third of the lottery proceeds for the next six years and half the proceeds for the remaining 19 years, or $7,245,000 before tixes, Superior Court Judge Robert E. Flournoy Jr. ruled. Mr. Cooney's pre-tax share over the 16 year period will be $9,315,000. He will bear the $2.6 million debt alone.

Talking word processors aim at livelier office

TOKYO (R) -- From the comtry that gave the world karaoke comes the latest in responsive talk back. They bark when you write "dog", moo when you write "cow" and make the sound of pouring from a bottle when you write "beer". If you choose to recall a text file word-by-word at reading speed, the machines will repeat these and 26 other preprogrammed noises, from sleigh bells to sirens, as the words come up. The word processors, models of which go on sale in Japan next week at 170,000 yen ($1,360) and and 285,000 yen ($2,280), even shout warnings at users when they try to switch them off without saving the contents of a file.

Toshiba said the talking machines are aimed at a new range of users like students and young office workers who want more fun from their writing equipment.

Food ads affect

U.K. study finds

children's eating,

Regional election defeat alarms Japan ruling party TOKYO (R) — Japan's new anti-

Mr. Keating said. "The last resort...if we had to we rural heartland, setting off alarm bells ahead of key Tokyo municipal elections — and a likely general election — later this year.

Malaysia, Vietnam and Indone-All 370,000 Cambodian refugees are expected to be repatri-ated by the end of March, a year Yamagata, northern Japan, by a margin of 40,000 votes.

after the huge operation began. Japan has authorised a request by UNTAC military commander Lieutenant-General John Sanderson for its engineers to help build bunkers and communications trenches for the French Foreign Legion in Chhuk, a small town in Kampot province in the south. ta for their courage.'

It is the first time in more than corruption party has won a prize governorship in the ruling party's of Japan since 1955, has lost the Demoralised in the past six months by a damning moneyand-mobsters scandal involving its leaders, the LDP failed to agree on a single, unified candidate in Yamagata.

Instead, four conservatives, all with past affiliation with the LDP, stood for the governorship. The LDP national and prefectoral leadership backed the wrong

Final returns Monday showed that the Japan New Party (JNP) candidate, supported by the Socialists and rebels within the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP), won the election in

"We see this as a big turning point," a JNP spokesman said. This is the start of a drastic change in Japanese politics, particularly because it happened in the Liberal Democrats' stronghold. We thank the people of Yamaga-governorship of Yamagata, an underdeveloped, rice-growing region heavily dependent on sub-sidies from Tokyo. "We were unable to achieve party unity," a stony-faced Prime Minister Kiichi Miyazawa told reporters in parliament.

said. The Consumers' Association report found that heavily advertised foods are not just bought as treats but make up a large proportion of the average child's diet. Advertisements for fatty, sugary food far outnumber healthy eating messages and chil-dren ask for the products they see promoted, the report said. It said a child who watched British commercial television for an hour after school and all Saturday morning would see 92 advertisements per week for food and drink : hour. "Food companies have an interest in catching consumers young. In their eyes, your kids are an expanding market," David Dickinson, editor of the association's magazine, which published the report, said. British companies spent more £460 million ($660 million) advertising food and soft drinks on television in Poor burn money to keep warm in Dublin

DUBLIN (R) - The poor are burning money to keep warm in Dublin. Old banknotes declared redundant by Ireland's Central Bank have been compressed to make briquettes of fuel for the needy. Hundreds of thousands of punt banknotes have been don-ated by the bank to a charity which then shreds them and distributes up to 2,000 briquettes a

After years of confinement, Aung San Suu Kyi still inspires Burmese BANGKOK (AP) - Confined to The generals say they won't cede power to a civilian government until the new constitution is drafted, but has not said how long that would take. The junta refused to recognise the 1990 elecher house by soldiers for 3½ years. Aung San Suu Kyi still fires the Burmese people's hopes for a peaceful end to decades of authoritarian oppression.

This week in Thailand, seven Nobel Peace Prize laureates are gatheriung to press for the release of Mrs. Suu Kyi, who won the 1991 prize for what the Awards Committee called "one of the most extraordinary examples of civil courage in Asia in recent

Last month, when Burma's military junta convened a constitutional conference it described as a move toward democracy, dissidents exiled in Thailand called it a sham and staged protest rallies, brandishing portraits of Mrs. Suu Kyi.

In Burma, where open dissent can be dangerous, her name is whispered reverently and sometimes her picture is seen in homes hanging next to golden statuettes of Buddha. Acknowledging its own fearful brand of respect, the junta indicated last month that Mrs. Suu

Kyi's detention may be indefinite because freeing her could cause political instability. It deferred a decision on her release to the next government.

tion in which it was badly beaten by Mrs. Suu Kyi's National League for Democracy even though she already was in deten-House arrest has almost completely separated Mrs. Suu Kyi, 47, from the outside world, including her British husband and two sons.

Little has been heard of her but what does filter out indicates an unbroken spirit. The junta has offered freedom if she leaves the country - an option she refuses to discuss. 'She gets no regular medical attention and refuses any favours

from the regime... as a means of bringing pressure on them," her husband, Oxford University scholar Michael Aris, said last November. He said she has been forced to sell furniture to buy She won't even accept help from her family. Prof. Aris had planned to take her food and books over Christmas, but received a brief message from her asking him not to come.

"Things have not been easy for her," Prof. Aris said on another occasion. "But she pointed out that others have suffered far Last May, she sent a speech accepting a U.S. human rights award, her first public statement since detention began. Possibly referring to recent reforms by the junta, she said reconciliation "goes beyond token gestures of appeasement." She called for respect for human rights and for the will of the people as expressed in the elec-"I have never doubted the ability of the people of my country to bring about these and other desirable changes once national reconciliation has been achieved," she Mrs. Suu Kyi is a slim, almost frail looking woman, with a graceful and dignified presence, her name means: a bright collection of strange victories. She was born in Rangoon but was travelled widely abroad. She graduated from Oxford and ters in New York. She returned to the capital in 1988 tto nurse her ailing mother. By coincidence, the largest anti-

worked at the U.N. Headquar-

Aung San Suu Kyi

government demonstrations in Burma's history were exploding on the streets nationwide.

Mrs. Suu Kyi commanded attention because she is the daughter of Aung San, the revered, assassinated leader of Burma's drive for independence from British colonialism.

She seized the moment, fearlessly criticising the generals as soldiers were shooting dead hundreds, if not thousands, of demonstrators.

"The present crisis is the concern of the entire nation," she told a mass raily. "I could not, as my father's daughter, remain indifferent to all that was going on. This national crisis could, in fact, be called the second struggle for independence.' Mrs. Suu Kyi consistently change through dialogue but her appeals have been completely rejected. After silencing her in the two storey house by Inya Lake. the junta has quieted the streets through intimidation and arrests and decimated the organised movement she led.

championed non-violence and

... 1. 11 .3. 11. 22. 15

LONDON (R) - Food manufacturers have successfully used television to change the way children eat, a British consumer report

— a rate of nearly 10 an